Missouri alloted 2% more gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office ordered oil companies Tuesday to send additional gasoline from their own stocks to 20 states suffering shortages in February.

The move was aimed at easing the long waiting lines at gasoline stations, but there was no way to guess how much relief it would bring.

The additional gasoline was earmarked to be added to the state set-asides for "hardship cases", to be distributed at the direction of state governors to alleviate particularly severe local gasoline shortages.

Last Feb. 9, the FEO requested that oil companies transfer up to two per cent of the gasoline allocation from ten states, and increase by as much as two per cent the allocation of 12 other states and the District of Columbia.

The FEO said Tuesday that policy still stands; but four states due for increases under both the Feb. 9 policy and Tuesday's order would get only the amount of Tuesday's order.

Here is a summary of the FEO gasoline allocation increases:

—Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon, Vermont and West Virginia: These eight states had their total February gasoline allocation increased five per cent by Tuesday's order. Three per cent of their original allocation was already set aside to aid hardship cases; the new five per cent increase is added to that hardship set-aside for use at the governors' discretion.

—New Jersey and Virginia: Last Feb. 9, these two states were designated to receive up to two per cent more gasoline in February, if the oil companies could conveniently provide it; Tuesday's order included that two per cent in a total five per cent increase and required the oil companies to provide it all. The five per cent increase was to be added to the existing state hardship setaside of three per cent of the original supply, for use at the governors' discretion.

—Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Massachusetts, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island: The FEO order Tuesday required oil companies to send these eight states an additional two per cent on top of their original February gasoline allocations, to be added to their previous three per cent state hardship set-asides, to be distributed at the discretion of their governors.

—Illinois and Maryland: Designated last Feb. 9 to receive up to two per cent more gasoline if oil companies could conveniently provide it.

Demand for farm equipment rising

Farm equipment remains a growing need for farmers all over the country, and many farmers from the Midwestern area migrate to Hale Auction Co. on Highway 62 East which conducts frequent sales of used equipment. Auctioneer Dave Hale (right photo) rambles out a rapid chant about equipment varying from plows to heavy tractors to almost any other kind of farm equipment. Farmers from all over the central United States (top photo) listen and register their bids with a raised hand or sometimes an answering chant of their own.

Board OKs open campus policy at Sikeston High

The Sikeston R-6 School District board of education Tuesday approved an open campus policy for students at Sikeston High School. The open campus policy means students will be allowed to leave the campus during the lunch hour.

The policy is expected to begin March 12 and continue on a trial basis for the remainder of the school year.

The board's action came after it received a recommendation from the school's student council that the policy be adopted. The council made the recommendation after the board indicated it would respond favorably to such a recommendation. Students at the high school have been seeking an open campus for years.

Terry Teachout, a representative of the student council, told the board many students now violate the closed campus rules. He said the school would have better control over students if they could leave the campus legally and if such privileges were regulated.

The student council's recommendation suggested that students be required to have a release from their parents before being allowed to leave campus, that there be no littering of campus grounds and that students returning late from off the campus should be disciplined by their teachers.

Teachout said he thought the open campus proposal was a realistic solution to the problems of students leaving campus.

Board members expressed some reservations about the workability of the restrictions and wanted it made clear they were not approving the open campus policy simply because students were violating the closed campus rules.

Board members said they are mainly concerned about the safety of the students during the lunch hour. The schools have legal responsibility for the students during school hours. Supt. Sam Harbin said he doesn't think a parental release will negate the school's responsibility.

The installation of lighted traffic signals at the intersection of East Malone Avenue and Pine Street appeared to remove the last major objection to an open campus.

Harbin said food service in the cafeteria would probably fluctuate for the first few weeks of open campus. He said the history of an open campus indicates that students will leave the campus in large numbers the first few weeks, then begin remaining on campus in larger numbers.

In other action, the board voted to place the school district tax levy on the April 2 election ballot. The board will ask voters to keep the levy at its present level of $4.19 per $100 assessed evaluation. The issue must come before voters every four years.

The board voted to raise mileage rates for school personnel who drive their own cars for school business from 10 cents per mile to 12 cents per mile.

The board also accepted the resignation of William House, a science teacher at the junior high school.

Mrs. Holland bound over in husband murder case

Mrs. Vivian Maxine Holland, 40, of 1409 Henry St. was bound over to appear in Circuit Court Feb. 28 on a first degree murder charge in connection with the Jan. 27 shotgun slaying of her husband, George Holland, following a Tuesday afternoon preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Lloyd Briggs in the Sikeston city courtroom.

Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee and Sikeston police detective Dan Hinton testified as witnesses for the state.

Nunnelee said he arrived at the scene shortly after the slaying occurred at approximately 3 a.m. and Mrs. Holland told him she and Holland had been arguing.

The corner then said Mrs. Holland told him she picked up a shotgun pointed it at her husband's back and pulled the trigger. When it failed to go off, she said she noticed the shotgun had come apart, so she fixed it back together and pulled the trigger a second time. This time she said it discharged and the blast struck Holland.

Nunnelee said he found Holland slumped over the table in a pool of blood with a shotgun wound in the back.

Hinton said Mrs. Holland told him she did not know how the argument started. She said she and Holland had been fighting and that Holland was making harassing telephone calls.

Hinton stated that Mrs. Holland said she picked up the shotgun and tried unsuccessfully to get Holland's attention. She told Hinton she then pulled the trigger and the gun came apart. She said she fixed it back together and, when he continued to pay no attention to her, she pulled the trigger again and the gun discharged.

Hinton said she told him she tried to help Holland up after he slumped over the table but was unable to do so.

She also told Hinton she took the phone out of her husband's hand and told Mrs. Hazel Woodard (to whom Holland had been talking) that she had just shot him and asked her to send her husband (police Capt. Lawrence Woodward) to the Holland home.

Under cross-examination, Hinton said Mrs. Holland told him she did not mean to kill her husband; that she only wanted to hurt him and get his attention. Hinton also said she stated she did not know the gun was loaded.

Hinton said he took two statements from Mrs. Holland because he wanted to make sure she wasn't trying to protect someone and to determine if someone else had shot Holland.

Witnesses called by the defense were Capt and Mrs. Woodward and police Sgt. Jack Patterson and Richard Couch.

Woodward testified that the first time he saw Holland on the night he was killed was on a ditch bank at the west end of Murray Lane where one of Holland's sons had driven a car into the ditch. He said he had received a call that a man had been seen chasing a boy across a yard.

When he arrived at the scene, Woodward said he saw Holland and could tell that he had been drinking.

"I told him I came out to help and he told me it was none of my business and to leave," Woodward remarked.

The next time Woodward saw Holland was at the police station. "I didn't want to talk to him because I knew he had been drinking and I didn't want any trouble with him," he said.

"After I thought he had left, I walked out in the hall, and he and Mrs. Holland

2 policemen hurt during car chase

EAST PRAIRIE — Two city policemen were injured about 11:15 p.m. Tuesday when their police car crashed during a high speed chase through East Prairie.

Officers Charles Ferguson and Daniel Byrd reportedly were taking Gerald Morgan, who was ill, to his home on Route Two when a car pulled from an alley onto Washington Drive at a high rate of speed. The car continued down Washington Drive, running stop signs, along the way and turned north on Miller Road.

The officers pursued the car about two miles before Ferguson lost control of the police car which struck a tree. The car, a 1973 model, was demolished.

All three men in the police car were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. Byrd was treated and released. Ferguson, who reportedly received broken ribs and a cut on his leg, and Morgan who received cuts were admitted to the hospital

Madrid police foil attempted store break-in

NEW MADRID— An attempted break- in at R. C. Smith Jewelry Store on Main Street was prevented early today when police were notified at 2 a.m. that three youths were trying to kick in a back door at the store.

Two 16- year- olds were arrested at the scene by officer Jim Morgan and the third, who escaped, is being sought.

The juveniles have been released to New Madrid County Juvenile Officer J. J. Bloomfield Jr.

Driver hurt in collision

A two- car accident at the intersection of New Madrid and Trotter streets resulted in minor injuries to one of the drivers at 12:55 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Imogene Anderson, 66, of 115 Dorothy St. was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

She was injured when the car she was driving was struck on the driver's side by a car driven by Vernon Ramsey, 70, of 103 N. West St.

Police said Mrs. Anderson was southbound on South New Madrid Street, when Ramsey westbound on Trotter Street, failed to yield the right of way and struck her car.

Police said Ramsey received a ticket for careless and imprudent driving.

Allen jailed for bean sale

CHARLESTON — Cecil Allen of rural Charleston is being held in the Mississippi County jail on a felony charge of stealing more than $50.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie said Allen is accused of selling between 50 and 60 bushels of soybeans — owned by Henry Crenshaw and stored on the Crenshaw farm northwest of Charleston — to Lonnie Wallace of Charleston on Tuesday.

Allen formerly worked for Crenshaw and was living on the Crenshaw farm.

Ivie said Wallace gave Allen a $225 check for the beans and went to the farm and loaded them on his truck. Reportedly, someone saw the truck being loaded and informed Crenshaw, who notified the sheriff's department.

Allen was arrested about 6 p.m. Tuesday in Charleston by Deputy Sheriff Mike Baughman.

Madrid Young Demos will hear Jim Spain

NEW MADRID — Jim Spain of Bloomfield, former state representative of the 151st District and candidate for state attorney general in 1972, will be guest speaker at New Madrid County Young Democratic Club officer installation banquet scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday at Billy Fisher's Steak House in Portageville.

Newly- elected officers are Jim W. Farrenburg of New Madrid Route One, president Louis "Goob" Martin of Kewanee, first vice president; R. D. James of New Madrid, second vice president; Jim LaBrot of Parma, secretary; and Rick Towery of Sikeston Route Three, treasurer.

Democratic candidates for state and county offices have been invited and each candidate will be allowed to introduce himself and make brief remarks.

Current president, Jim Cravens, said the club is actively engaged in both county and state Democratic party plans and urged members their wives and guests and prospective members to attend.

A dutch treat steak dinner will be served.

Stereo tapes stolen from car

Stereo tapes valued at $70 were reported stolen Tuesday by Richard Lucy, 928 Crescent Drive.

Lucy said the tapes were stolen between 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. from his car, while it was parked at the corner of Lake and Taylor streets.

The tapes contained religious music.

Police said today that a minibike was stolen Saturday from the front porch of the Darrell Townsend home, 1712 Kentucky, on Saturday. The value was not reported.

Cars collide at intersection

LITTLE LEAUGE FEVER

"Little League" baseball is, to thousands of youths and hundreds of enthusiastic adults, a big part of life in America. In cities and towns in every State, civic, social and fraternal organizations serve as sponsors of Little League teams to encourage good sportsmanship, physical fitness and all of the leadership qualities developed through competitive activity.

But where the Little League fever has really taken hold is in Free China. Youths from the Republic of China have won three world championships in the last four years. Thousands of avid fans turn out to watch the Little League players in action. Competition for places on the teams is fierce. As a result, the Chinese National Little League branches in the Republic of China will be increased from the present 22 to 41. Taipei city, which now has one branch, will be increased to five. Tainan city, which sponsored the 1973 world Little League champions, the Tainan Giants, will increase from three to seven branches, as will Taichung city and Kaohsiung city. Other cities and counties will similarly be doubled and tripled in numbers of branches.

Watching the world champions in action last year, some admiring American observers could scarcely believe their eyes. It was noted that the Chinese boys "played like professionals," and some went so far as to wonder if the age of the Chinese boys had been falsified. However, Peter McGovern, chairman of the Little League, headquartered at Williamsport, Pennsylvania, said that a thorough investigation had shown that there was no violation of the rules.

It seems to us that the winning characterisistics found in the Little League players from the Republic of China are a natural attribute in a country where pride in accomplishment, patriotism, self- esteem and deep appreciation in the value of freedom is encouraged in all aspects of life. We'll be looking forward with interest to the forthcoming 1974 competition, and although we will naturally be cheering the Americans, we'll be rooting for the winners, from whatever part of the free world they may come.

TAKE TWO, THEY'RE SMALL

The trend toward smaller cars has not yet reached the underworld.

According to one man versed on the subject, Sgt. Michael A. Janero, head of the auto theft unit of the Cleveland Police Department, 1973 full- size and luxury cars are still the most popular models with car thieves.

However, medium and compact cars are expected to attract more illicit attention as they become more numerous, and especially if there is gas rationing.

In other words, like any other "enterprisers" serving a market, car thieves aim to please their customers.

If people would buy parts and cars only from legitimate dealers, says Janero, there would be no market for car theft rings. But as long as people are willing to buy cheap parts or "special deal" cars from dubious sources, car theft will continue to be a problem, no matter how much money or effort is spent on anti theft devices or law enforcement.

THE FORGOTTEN PEOPLE

While the government is allowing the rich oil companies to drastically raise their prices and profits, hundreds of thousands of gasoline service station owners and operators wish that it would also remember them, the forgotten people in the oil economic scale.

Until this week, their margin of profit per gallon had not been changed by the companies.

The result was that most station operators were feeling the financial pinch, and suffering economically.

They are entitled to a higher profit margin per gallon, and must have it if they are to continue in business and if we are to continue to have them to service us.

The same applies to the distributors of LP gas, at least one of whom says his costs have been drastically raised, while his profit margin per unit has remained the same, also resulting in less volume and much less profit.

USED CAR BUYER'S GUIDE

When buying a used car, do you know what the guy is actually saying?

Here's the lingo of a fictitious used car dealer, "Crazy Sam's Used Car Emporium" as translated by an outsider.

OWNED BY A DOCTOR — And driven by his son in drag races.

NEVER BEEN RACED — Former owner too embarrassed.

LOW MILEAGE CAR — We turned the speedometer way back.

DRIVEN ONLY 11,000 MILES — Towed the rest of the way.

REBUILT ENGINE — We cleaned the spark plugs.

ONE OWNER CAR — Man by the name of Hertz.

CREAM PUFF — Was in a head-on collision with a milk truck.

UNDERCOATED — With rust.

SECOND CAR — There were only two cars in the race.

DOESN'T BURN OIL — It drips out before it has a chance to burn.

RECONDITIONED — With the cheapest seat covers we could find.

AS IS — Bring your own shovel.

10 GALLONS A WEEK

Energy Chief William E. Simon is asking everyone to limit his auto gasoline consumption to 10 gallons a week.

As he points out, this is a try at voluntary rationing. If it works, the real thing may be avoided.

It still is not clear what Simon means by 10 gallons per week. Presumably it means 10 gallons per week per car, just as his request to filling stations that they limit sales applies to each car at the pumps.

Ten gallons per week should be enough to take care of the ordinary needs of most drivers in this area. Certainly it should take care of all the essential driving necessary for those whose car is not necessary in their work and who live only a few miles from their jobs or have other means of getting to them. It may require a little planning, having the worker stop at the grocery store on his way home in the evening instead of requiring the wife to make a special trip. And other errands can be planned, too, so that one trip does the work of several.

Two sisters were discussing their grandmother. "Why do you think grandma reads the Bible so much," asked one.

The other girl replied, "I think she's cramming for her finals."

SPEED CALLED CAUSED OF ROLLOVER ACCIDENTS

The National Safety Council says that 90,400 cars roll over each year.

However, if the first event is "collision between motor vehicles" and one of the vehicles subsequently rolls over, only the first event is recorded and the rollover is not documented. Therefore, it is believed that the number of rollovers is much higher than the 0.6% of all accidents reported in the mass accident data. Perhaps on the order of 19 per cent of all accidents involve rollovers according to the Highway Research Institute of the University of Michigan.

An earlier automobile crash injury study found rollovers in 25 per cent of rural injury producing accidents.

Few rollovers occur under 40 miles per - hour, but with higher speeds the frequency of cars overturning increases significantly, the study said. The young driver, 21 and under, is said to be almost twice as involved in rollovers as those over 21.

BASIS OF SEA POWER

Merchant ships are a primary element of sea power -- a fact that the USSR and other nations have recognized, juding by their massive merchant ship construction programs.

In the United States, the importance of merchant ships has been stressed in a memorandum from the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral E. R. Zumwalt, Jr. to Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird. Admiral Zumwalt said, "The Navy has a greater requirement for merchant ships than is generally recognized. For example, merchant ships are absolutely required to provide the bulk of the DOD (Department of Defense) sealift and to augment our amphibious forces. Also ... testing was recently completed and it proved the feasibility of using commercial tankers to consolidate Navy replenishment ships and to provide limited replenishment of combatant ships. The knowledge that this surge capability is available can expand the employment options of our fleet ... I intend to express my belief in the need for a strong, viable U. S. - flag Merchant Marine at every available opportunity ..."

Much has been done to awaken the American public to our dependence on a strong merchant marine -- both militarily and economically. A major shipbuilding program has been undertaken in this country that will extend over a period of 10 years. New technology cargo carriers and tankers will be joining the fleet in the years ahead. They will help provide the sinews that will command the respect of communist nations with whom the United States is now endeavoring to open trade relations. The remarks of Admiral Zumwalt merely add emphasis to the urgency of moving ahead with U. S. merchant ship construction.

ALASKAN OIL PIPELINE SAID TO MAKE SENSE

Final approval for the right-of- way to the Alaska pipeline would be an important step in overcoming the energy shortage, according to Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute. He has predicted that, when the line is fully operational, "It will supply U. S. refineries with two million barrels of crude oil every day."

Stating that there are proved reserves of about 10 billion barrels of oil under the North Slope of Alaska, Mr. Ikard said, "It would make very little sense to leave them there and to spend more dollars for oil from foreign sources."

He said the builders have a responsibility to utilize every engineering technique to assure that there will be no significant damage to the ecology of Alaska.

MODERN TECHNIQUE USED TO RESTORE OLD DOCUMENTS

Rare, ancient and valuable documents, with soil accumulated over the years, are being gently cleaned without harming precious script or puncturing parchment.

The S. S. White Industrial Products Division of Pennwalt Corp., Piscataway, N. J., demonstrated that, with the proper choice of powder and nozzle, the use of abrasive cutting equipment on a bible fragment in Yeminite script for the Jewish National and University Library in Jersalem, could be successful.

Nick LaCourte, who supervised this unsual experiment, said, "On instructins from the library, we directed our attention to the clear spaces between the handwritten lines, carefully staying away from the letters themselves. However, we believe that if anyone wanted to take the time, and only a minimal training would be necessary, he could ultimately develop enough confidence to attempt a complete cleaning.

The abrasive jet machine has a multitude of applications in industry, especially in electronics, where it is a standard method of adjusting printed resistors on miniaturized circuits.

KIDNAP, TERRORISTS

The kidnapping of Patricia Hearst in San Francisco is another horrifying story emerging from the crime scene of the U.S., in fact the world. This abduction is a headline story, but there are many others receiving less media attention which are equally appalling. In the case of Miss Hearst, the criminals declare themselves to have radical political motives. Whatever the motives, they are still vicious felons who defy an orderly society.

Police and FBI agents working on the Hearst case have asked for public cooperation in their efforts to get the daughter of the distinguished publisher, Randolph A. Hearst, home safely. The appeal should be a standing effort in all criminal cases. Citizens can do much to aid officers of the law and the courts.

Witnesses to crimes should come forward with information and when the cases are broken they should stand fast in their testimony from the witness stand. It will take a united effort to whip the problem of crime. This column has long advocated the reinstitution of capital punishment. Many states are restoring the death penalty.

This column has also supported an unofficial program called Law- Aid. Its objective is to support law enforcement officers in their very tough job of protecting the nation internally. Law- Aid chapters should be formed in each community and work begun on a plan to help police and sheriff's officers.

NEW YORK (AP) — When work begins to overwhelm you, be grateful you don't have to perform some of the really disagreeable jobs in the world.

Like being the guy who decides what part to leave out of the do-it-yourself kits.

Just imagine having to spend your workday at a bicycle factory deciding exactly which bolt or nut to leave out of each box. Or figuring out what essential part to not put into each dishwasher or air-conditioner or garage door opener for home installation.

(Boxes packed for professional installation or assembly must never be missing any parts, of course. Presumably some coding scheme regulates which box gets to the professional and which is relegated to the father who won't put it together until later.

(Companies contend, naturally enough, that most packages are properly packed. Parts are missing, supposedly, from maybe 1 per cent of the total. It is an interesting accident of statistics how 99 per cent of the buyers get that one per cent).

The responsibility and decision making involved in such a job is staggering.

Just how do you decide what to leave out?

Maybe it's random chance. You just close your eyes and grab a part. That probably would work well enough, but it's hard to imagine any modern corporate management entrusting such a vital task to mere chance.

More likely there is a formal schedule, conceived by an accountant and executed by a computer. It would decree to leave out the front wheel bolt on the first package, the chain on the second one, the handlebar nut on the third, and so forth.

There must be sadistic delight in pondering the harassed father with the assembled vehicle wondering where those extra pieces go.

If that's a sort of mad pleasure for the guy in the bike factory, think what sort of thrill you could get with something like a dishwasher. There it sits, finally installed and working after 3 days, 47 curses, 2 head bumps, 13 scraped fingers and 1 near divorce.

And still you have five screws just like those you put in and which look essential.

You then have two choices: (a) take it all out and start over again, reading the directions even more carefully to make certain you didn't miss anything; (b) throw the screws into the far corner under the counter where they'll never be found, open a beer and accept your wife's congratulations.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON & LES WHITTEN SAYS:

Uncover $1 Million In Unreported '72 GOP Funds

WASHINGTON-- Secret documents from the 1972 Nixon presidential campaign, including a mysterious list of donors code- named "Alpha Four," show new discrepancies and unreported contributions of at least $1 million.

There are indications the total may eventually reach millions more. This is all in addition to the $60.2 million in contributions finally admitted by Nixon fund-raisers last September under heavy pressure from Common Cause.

Buried in that whopping kitty was a $10,000 gift collected from a pair of Miami businessmen by the President's crony, banker Bebe Rebozo. The partners in Atlantic Investors of Miami, Jay I. Kislak and Alec Courtelis, gave the money to Rebozo hoping he would tell the President about it.

"If you're going to make a contribution," Kislak told us candidly, "you want to get as close to the guy as you can get, don't you?"

As far as we can determine, Rebozo turned the money over to the campaign without belaboring President Nixon about it.

In previous cases, as we have reported, Rebozo collected $100,000 from Howard Hughes and $10,000 from the Davis brothers, who founded the Winn- Dixie supermarket chain.

The new $1 million discrepancy was turned up by investigators for Common Cause. The citizens' lobby got some of its information, we have discovered, by threatening to serve a subpoena on Rose Mary Woods, the President's secretary.

Under this pressure, the White House turned over her list of secret contributors to Common Cause. The citizens' group also has winnowed data from sealed depositions of Rebozo, Nixon lawyer Herb Kalmbach and others.

Finally, they have obtained an alphabetized four- column list titled "Alpha Four," containing contributors' names and financial work papers of the Nixon re- election committee.

Besides this curiously unaccounted for $1 million, the Common Cause sleuths believe many millions more in donations remain unreported, but they lack documents to back it up.

There is evidence, for instance, that huge sums were pledged to the Nixon campaign and secretly paid into state committees to avoid federal accounting. One committee was set up under the Republican National Committee's umbrella, but money was funneled out of it for White House uses, the sleuths found.

Large amounts were also "contributed in kind" in the form of airline tickets, rent- a-cars, credit card charges and the like.

FOOTNOTE: Common Cause lawyers Mitch Rogovin and Ken Guido, who pried loose most of the new data, refused comment except to say new court action is planned soon. Lawyers for the Nixon fund- raisers did not return our calls.

ROLLING OVER THE HANDICAPPED: An American company, which has cornered a dominant share of the world market in wheelchairs, has been accused of rolling up $16 million a year in sales at the expense of this country's handicapped.

In a still confidential draft report, the Center for Concerned Engineering charges that Everest and Jennings International is selling virtually the same wheelchairs in America for $495 that it markets in Great Britain for $135. The group rated the British chair as being better, since it is equipped with pneumatic front tires.

In West German, E&J is faced with small innovative competitors. The center's engineers said E&J markets many types of advanced machines in Germany to meet this challenge and includes such options as luggage racks, which are not available here.

Ralf Hotchkiss, director of the engineering center, said he made an international tour checking the availability of wheelchairs and found that the handicapped in other countries fare better than Americans, both in price and in design.

During his investigative trip to England, Hotchkiss said he visited the largest E&J distributor and placed an order for 10 wheelchairs.

"We went through all the paperwork and then the salesman asked where I wanted the wheelchairs shipped," Hotchkiss said. "I gave him my American address and he told me he was not allowed to ship the cheaper chairs to the United States."

He said E&J enforced a similar policy in Germany, where the broad range of models is particularly attractive to handicapped Americans.

The biggest unfulfilled need in wheelchairs, the center's draft concluded, is to make them narrow enough to carry their passengers through bathroom doors.

Citing a recent study which shows that most U. S. wheelchairs are more than two feet wide, the center noted, "The average bathroom door in both private homes and public facilities is less than 24 1/2 inches"-- too narrow for wheelchairs.

The center contended, however, that there is considerable data showing that "60 per cent of adults can fit comfortably into chairs 20 inches wide or less."

Our investigation shows that the top three E&J officers, all members of the Jennings family, collected more than $500,000 a year in salaries, dividends and other benefits-- not including a generous retirement plan.

E&J's American competitors, the engineering center said, are content to sell virtually the same models as E&J, at virtually the same prices.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for E&J firmly defended his company, saying wheelchairs are fairly priced from $105 to about $1,000 for special, powered models. The company has constantly improved its American product, he said, and profits were not high.

O'NEAL'S SIDE: In December, we told how former Rep. Maston O'Neal, D- Ga., contacted his old House colleague, Small Business Administrator Thomas Kleppe, about a contract for O'Neal's son- in- law. O'Neal declined to return our call at the time. Now, he has assured us he did not contact Kleppe on the contract, but on a different business matter concerning his son- in- law. O'Neal denies he tried to influence Kleppe or that he has any financial stake in his son- in- law's firm.

2 waive preliminary hearing; to be tried on felony charge

NEW MADRID — Kenny Marshall and Roy Marshall were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a felony charge of breaking nand entering with intent to commit a felony after waiving a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

They are accused of breaking into the dwelling of Marie Turnbo in Marston on Feb. 8 with intent to commit a felony. Bond of $500 was set for each.

Robert Joe Kirk drew a $125 fine on a charge of driving while intoxicated. His driver's license was suspended for one year and he was given a six- month suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year

Pin Daugherty and Dennis Sharp were fined $51 each on a charge of malicious destruction of property in Gideon by breaking windows and taking wires and keys from a tractor owned by M and S Auction Co. on Feb. 10.

William A. Jeffords was levied a $35 fine on a charge of common assault upon Margaret Jeffords by striking her about the face with his fists on Feb. 17.

W. C. James was fined $90 on charges of careless and imprudent driving and driving while license is under revocation.

Other cases and fines:

Louise Simmons, driving without a license,$20; Jimmy Dale Hunt, driving without a licnese, $30; and Syvilla Etta Hardin, careless and imprudent driving by failure to yield right of way $40.

A suit for damages filed by Margaret E. Williams against L. A. Tucker Truck Lines was ordered transferred to New Madrid County Circuit Court upon agreement of stipulation for transfer.

Kiwanis host dinner

Dean Murphy, left, governor of the Missouri-Arkansas District of Kiwanis International, was guest speaker at the Dean Murphy dinner, hosted Tuesday night at Ramada Inn by the Sikeston Kiwanis Club for Division 15 clubs. Don Pratt, right, is club president. Also present at the dinner was Dr. William Simpson, governor of the Kentucky- Tennessee district, and three former governors of the Missouri-Arkansas District — George Kirk of Sikeston, Dale Bracey of Caruthersville and Linus Bartels of Cape Girardeau. Court says hospital facilities must be available for abortion

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Public hospital facilities must be made available for abortion services, the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled in a case involving the Virginia, Minn., city hospital.

"Where the state fails to take cognizance of the separate trimesters of pregnancy in its regulation of abortion procedures, the regulation is overbroad and invalid," the appeals court said Tuesday in affirming a lower court ruling.

The class-action suit challenged the constitutionality of a hospital resolution, which prohibited the use of hospital facilities for performing any abortions unless the pregnancy threatened the life of the mother.

The appeals court said the issue involved a question of whether public hospitals could deny facilities to doctors and patients through policy statements that are held to be unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The high court ruled last year that a physician and patient should be free during the first three months of pegnancy to determine whether an abortion would be performed without interference from the state.

County collects $41,052 in taxes

BENTON — Scott County Collector, Tom Marshall reports $41,052.21 personal, real estate and merchants tax collected in the month of January.

Distribution of taxes collected are:

State, $244.62; county, $3,701.77; county sepcial road, $2,233.95; health, $815.44; library, $464; Johnson grass, $163.14 and county drainage, $585.47.

School districts:

Illmo-Scott City, R-1, $3,319.05; Chaffee, R-2, $1,896.42; Oran, R-3, $4,654.17; Benton, R-4, $3,551.31; Scott Central, R-5, $3,747.02; Sikeston, R-6, $15,432.97; and Kelso, No. 7, $242.88.

According to Marshall, all taxes collected are delinquent and will bear a two per cent penalty and two per cent interest if paid in February.

Marshal will be appointed

ADVANCE — Voters in a narrow margin of 65 to 64 decided in a special election Tuesday the office of town marshal will be an appointive position.

The office previously was an elective position.

6 arrests announced

Police today announced six arrests. They include Theodore Eugene Jennings, of St. Charles for petit larceny; Vernon Harbenson Ramsey, 103 N. West, careless and imprudent driving; Robert Lee Porter, Dunn Hotel, public intoxication.

Calvin Leroy Adams, 104 Applegate, petit larceny; William Surface, 139 Fourth St., assault and battery; Byron Klingel, 104 Applegate, petit larceny.

Burglars unsuccessful

DEXTER — Burglars were unsuccessful in an attempt to open a cash register at Monaco Egg Co. Tuesday night, according to city police, who reported nothing was stolen.

Thieves broke a window glass at the rear of the building to enter the building.

A previous break- in Jan. 23 netted burglars $40.

The ancient Greeks believed that the nauticles, a shell-fish resembling the snail, used its shell as a boat and its arms as a sail.

Baby should not sleep in parent's bedroom

IV. The First Weeks
At Home: Part 1

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This series of 18 articles, prepared by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will inform about and describe some of the things about normal babies that commonly worry parents -- telling what to do or not to do about them. They should answer many of the questions about what to expect of a new baby and give simple instructins about solving problems that most parents face during their baby's first year of life. Articles four, five and six are written to answer some of the questions about problems with a new baby during the first weeks he is at home.)

Sleeping

Everybody will get more rest if the baby does not sleep in the parents' room. Especially in the first weeks, his frequent snorts, gurgles, sneezes, coughs and irregular breathing are bound to keep you awake wondering what he'll do next. If he really needs you, he'll cry loud enough to be heard from nearly everywhere in the house.

Even in the smallest apartment, a cribe or makeshift crib can be moved to the living room, kitchen or bathroom when the parents retire for the night.

Don't put him in bed with you, either. There is always a danger of smothering him or hurting him by rolling over on him in your sleep, and it is almost certain he will want to become your constant bedfellow. Neither you nor your husband will want to put up with a wiggling, wet baby for very long.

He shouldn't sleep in a strong draft or breeze. He does not need open windows where he sleeps. Air that is fresh enough for him to breath during the day is fresh enough for him to sleep in.

He will decide for himself how long he wants to sleep -- anything from 12 to 20 hours during the 24- hour day. You won't be able to make him sleep any more or less, but certainly you can arrange to keep him awake during the times of the day that are most convenient for you, so that he will sleep during the nights and during mornings or afternoon naps.

Bowel Movements

The baby's first bowel movements are a sticky green- black material. After a week or two, they become lighter and less sticky, the way they will be for the next year. The baby may have anywhere from one movement every three or four days to five or six movements a day.

Movements may be as firm as those of a normal adult or as soft as watery scrambled eggs. They baby may turn red in the face and cry with each bowel movement, or he may seem totally unaware of them. The color of the bowel movements may be yellow, green or brown. All of these are normal.

Constipation exists when the bowel movements are hard, dry and difficult to pass, no matter how frequent or infrequent they may be. Prune juice (one tablespoon), brown sugar (one tablespoon) or molasses (one tablespoon), added to one of his bottles may correct this. If not, your doctor or clinic may suggest a remedy.

Do not use mineral oil, castor oil, adult laxatives or enemas without the advice of your doctor.

Diarrhea exists when the bowel movements contain too much water. Small bowel movements which are milky or wattery or odd- colored are rarely of concern, and no treatment or diet change is usually necessary. Large, water bowel movements can cause an infant to lose more water in his bowel movement than he is drinking.

The "dehydration" which results can be a true medical emergency. Even a single huge, explosive, water bowel movement can be an emergency in an infant one to three months old, especially if there is poor appetite or vomiting.

Do not delay in seeking medical attention when there are one or more large watery bowel movements.

Blood in Bowel Movements — Slight blood streaking on the outside of a bowel movement is usually caused by a small sore or fissure in the anus, and is not a cause for alarm. The fissure and the bleeding can often be cured by keeping the stools soft with one of the remedies discussed for constipation.

If bleeding or hard bowel movements persist, your doctor will be able to help. Do not delay medical attention if there is bloddy diarrhea or passage of fresh blood or blood clots with the bowel movements.

Fashion world free to groups

A new documentary film, featuring a behind- the-scenes look at the world of fashion, is now available without charge for showings by women's clubs, schools and community groups.

Entitled "Frankly Fashion," the 15- minute color film is a candid and entertaining look at some of the people who predict and select the styles of the future-- and then gamble millions of dollars on the hope that women will want to wear them.

Featured in the documentary is a woman who forecasts style trends a year ahead of the time they'll be "in" fashion; a man who buys more dresses in one hour than most women could wear in a lifetime; a textile engineer who destroys brand-new fashion apparel to determine how long they'll last; and a pattern designer who, in a nation of more than 100 million women, must ensure that any style in his line fits any woman who wants it.

Free- loan 16- millimeter prints of the film can be obtained by writing "Frankly Fashion," c/o Public Information Department, JC Penney Company, 1301 Avenue of the Americas, New York City, N. Y. 10019.

Applications now taken for Sew with Cotton program

Area girls from 10 to 18 years old may enroll in the annual Sew With Cotton program between now and March 1 by obtaining enrollment blanks from their home economics instructors, 4- H leaders, county chairmen and University of Missouri Extension Centers.

The program is designed to encourage and provide a meaningful experience for personal growth and development of the girl; to increase her competence in consumer education and construction skills; and to give a better understanding of the social and psychological effect of clothing on the individual girl.

Sponsors for this program are Kennett Oil Mill, Sikeston Cotton Oil Mill, Inc. and Mississippi Valley Oil Seed Processors Association of Memphis, Tenn., in cooperation with the administration of the local high schools, home economics instructors and the University of Missouri Extension Service.

Girls must make their garment of 100 percent cotton and enter in the class most appropriate for their age and ability.

The classes include:

Girls class: 10 to 12 years old— skirt and blouse, jumper and blouse or simple dress.

Junior Miss (with sewing experience): 13 to 15-- better dress without coat or jacket.

Open class (with or without sewing experience): 13 to 15-- suit, dress ensemble or pantsuit ensemble.

Sportswear class: 13 and up-- beach wear, shorts and top, slacks and top, pant dress, jumpsuit or pantsuit.

Misses class: 16 and up-- pantsuit ensemble, suit with blouse and jacket, better dress (with or without coat) or formal.

Each enrollee must be a home economics or Future Homemakers of America student, a 4- H member, or must have a supervisor with knowledge of sewing.

The county judging events will be held prior to or on April 20 at which time three winners will be picked from each class to represent the county at the district program in Doniphan on April 27.

Counties participating in the program, with their county chairmen, are: Butler, A. B. Hale of Poplar Bluff; Dunklin, Mrs. Walter Moore of Kennett; Mississippi, Mrs. Betty Sorrells of East Prairie; New Madrid, Mrs. Hugh Rogers of Matthews; Pemiscot, Mrs. Connie Anderson of Deering; Ripley, Mrs. Jean Cox of Doniphan; Scott, Mrs. Francis Harris of Benton; and Stoddard, Miss Mary Seibert of Bernie.

MOLASSES COOKIES

Grated raw yam is the surprise ingredient.

2 cups unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
½ cup margarine
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup molasses
1 cup finely grated pared raw yam, not packed down
¼ cup buttermilk

Thoroughly stir together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and ginger. Cream margarine and sugar; beat in egg. Add molasses and yam. Stir in flour mixture alternately with buttermilk until batter is smooth (except for shreds of yam). Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, a few inches apart, onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until browned — about 8 minutes. Remove to wire racks to cool. Makes almost 3½ dozen. This is a soft cookie with strong molasses flavor.

Ann Landers

Disgusted reader says female conversations top those of men

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to the woman who hated going to couples parties because the men go off to one side of the room and the women huddle together on the other side, was lousy.

According to you, most women are dummies who can't talk about anything but recipes, laundry bleaches and their kids. Such trivia bores the men (you said), so they drift away from the girls to discuss more substantive topics, such as world affairs, politics, and the economic state of the universe.

Last night my husband and I attended a party and the crowd was, as you described, divided according to sex. The women were discussing national politics and the oil crisis. It was a spirited exchange because there were several well- informed gals there who held opposite points of view.

I meandered to the other side of the room to listen to what the men were into. There were three conversations going. One guy was telling a dirty joke, another fellow was talking about guns. The third bore was running down his boss. I stood it for about ten minutes, then went back to the women. It was a welcome relief. This letter will, of course, wind up in the wastebasket because it upsets your oft- repeated theory that men are smart and women are stupid.-- Distaff Dora

Dear D.D.: Please don't put words in my mouth. Stupidity knows no gender. There are brilliant women and stupid men everywhere you look-- and I know plenty of both. I happen to prefer coeducational conversational evenings, but eight times out of tien, if the group is divided according to sex, I'd rather be with the men. Generally speaking, their topics are more substantive.

Dear Ann Landers: Am I addle- brained, immature, or just normal? As a teenager I would fall madly in love and tell myself, "This is IT." Six months later, I'd be sick of the sight of my Romeo and break it off.

At age 24 I married "the man of my dreams." Within a year, he irritated me beyond endurance. What used to be out- of- this- world sex turned into an ordeal. I tried my darnedest to make the marriage work for the sake of our two small children, but after six years I told him I couldn't stand the phoniness of our relationship and we were divorced.

Immediately I fell madly in love with an unstable but handsome charmer. We were married the first legal moment. Now, two years later, I see all his faults which should have been apparent before. We are in the process of being divorced.

I need to know if this is the way most marriages are. Do people get sick of each other and stay together for appearance's sake, or for convenience? I have always held a full- time job and the people I work with praise my patience and personality. They think I'm great. What do you think, Ann?-- Looking Inward In The Bay Area

Dear Looking: I think a woman who is a two- time loser at the age of 32 had better do a lot more "looking inward" before she considers another marriage.

You need some self-exploration with a professional to learn why you become bored with men after you capture them. This pattern which has persisted since you were a teenager indicates that emotionally you are STILL back in high school.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking-- its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading, "Booze and You-- For Teen- Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35c in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Crime compensation bill moves toward passage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House gave first round approval Tuesday to a measure that would grant state compensation to persons who are the victims of crimes. The bill, approved 10840, would cover injuries or deaths resulting from crimes and would cost the state about $754,000 for fiscal 1974-75.

The sponsor, Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, said it is the state's duty to protect citizens from crimes. He said the bill's purpose is to help families whose parents are killed or badly injured. It would also aid workers disabled as a result of crime.

An opponent of the bill, Rep. Max Bacon, D-Springfield, said the bill would set up a "massive insurance program," and would not aid persons suffering because of accidents.

He said the bill would make the state foot the bill for abortions arising from rape. It was changed to exclude costs of abortions, but the costs of maternal care after rapes would still be covered.

The bill creates a "Violent Crimes Compensation Board," under the state Social Services Department to be set up under the reorganization bill. The board would rule on all requests, and would make cash grants of from $100 to $10,000.

The state aid could go to any person hurt while trying to stop a "violent crime."

Such crimes would include kidnaping, rape and manslaughter. Persons who are not injured or who are the victims of robbery or burglary would not be covered.

In other action, the House gave tentative approval to a bill to boost the salary of nearly all the state's judges as well as circuit court reporters. Circuit court judges would get a raise from $28,000 to $29,500 per year. Other judges would get similar boosts. The bill would cost about $500,000 a year.

In the Senate a bill to increase workmen's compensation was debated but no action was taken.

Sen. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis, sponsor of the bill, said because there has been no increase in workmen's compensation since 1969, inflation has eaten up the amounts now paid and thus an increase is needed.

Colleges show 19 per cent vacancy rate, says survey

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A survey of 40 public and private colleges and universities in the state shows the institutions had a 19 per cent vancancy rate in enrollment at all levels in the fall of 1972.

The study by the Missouri Commission on High Education, being circulated this week, shows the institutions had facilities to accomodate an additional 22,724 students. The total capacity was estimated at 141,848 students and the total enrollment at 119,124.

The commission said the figures were compiled through a formula used in 1970 with information supplied by the colleges.

Almost half of the vacancies, 10,737, were in the upper division grades in the undergraduate programs.

Education, letters and social sciences were the courses with the largest number of vacancies and at the doctoral level the largest number of vacancies was in the biological and physical sciences and engineering.

The 13 public colleges and universities showed 12,514 classroom vacancies out of a capacity of 96,674. For the 27 privately controlled college and universities, there were 10,210 vacancies out of 45,174 capacity.

The University of Missouri, at 3,115, could have accommodated the most extra students, the report said. MU-Columbia was listed with a capacity of 24,118 and an enrollment of 21,003. St. Louis University was listed with 2,712 vacancies and a capacity of 9,717.

Culver-Stockton, with 584 students, could have accommodated 301 more, the commission's report said.

Evangel College had 762 vacancies and an enrollment of 1,188.

Dry milk guidelines proposed

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has proposed requirements for the use of dry milk ingredients in federally inspected poultry products.

The proposal will being poultry inspection regulationa into line with those adopted in 1967 for meat products, which require that dry milk ingredients be inspected under the voluntary inspection program for milk products administered by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) said the proposal will give consumers an added measure of protection against possible foodborne illnesses.

The proposed amendment would require sanitary handling and proper inspection of dry milk ingredients used in poultry products.

Written comments on the proposal should be filed before April 19, 1974 in duplicate with the Hearing Clerk, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250. To present oral comments, contact the inspection Standards and Regulations Staff, Technical Services, Meat and Poultry Inspection Program, APHIS, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

All written comments and transcripts of oral comments will be made available for public inspection in the office of the hearing clerk during regular working hours.

The proposal was published in the Feb. 1 Federal Register.

Former Dexter, Cape resident

Woman publisher to be honored

HOBBS, N. M. (AP)— When Agnes Kastner Head was 5 years old, she reported in the weekly Dexter, Mo., newspaper that a dead rat was found in the schoolhouse cistern. The story resulted in a cleaned- out cistern and a lid for it.

Mrs. Head now is 70 years old, and she's still reporting "irregular happenings."

'I m always reporting things that other papers won't report," said Mrs. Head, who's been publishing newspapers in New Mexico for 30 years. "I guess this is bragging, but I work a lot of investigative things. My paper's not a sad weekly. It's pretty perked up."

Mrs. Head, publisher of the weekly Hobbs Flare and former publisher of the Lovington Leader is being honored Thursday night in Hobbs at a banquet sponsored by Lea County friends.

Her long years of newspaper in New Mexico haven't always resulted in honors, however.

"I was arrested twice for criminal libel," she said. "Once was back in 1946. I was sued for $100,000. Mr. T. M. Pepperday of the Albuquerque Journal wanted to come to the rescue of a woman publisher and offered to finance my defense," she said.

She said, however, she and her husband, J. C., to whom she's been married 50 years, were able to shoulder the expenses.

A deputy sheriff "was running for sheriff. I had made the statement that gambling, bootlegging and prostitution were wide open, and no efforts were being made to stop it," she said. "And when we had the suit, I proved it."

"I had two men go out and purchase liquor from eight different bootlegging joints in a radius of two blocks " she said.

She said she was able to get the criminal libel charge in that case dismissed.

In March 1948, she launched the Hobbs Flare as a daily newspaper and, "on the third day I was arrested for criminal libel. This time, I was charged with libeling the dead."

Mrs. Head said she represented herself in this case, and got the suit dismissed.

"I had proof that the statment I made had been used in a prior campaign, and nobody had been arrested then," she said.

She was attending graduation ceremonies at Lindenwood College in Missouri for her daughter when the suit was filed, "and I was served with the papers when I came home."

Before moving to New Mexico in 1930, she worked as a reporter in Cape Girardeau, Mo., where she was going to Teachers College, now Southeast Missouri University.

"While I graduated, I didn't get a degree," she said. "They just weren't handing them out then. They handed out certificates." Her certificate was in commercial subjects.

Steps taken to improve service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said today steps have been taken by the National Weather Service to improve warning services for the Missouri Bootheel area.

Symington noted that two persons were killed in a tornado in Dunklin County Nov. 24 and an investigation by the Daily Dunklin Democrat newspaper in Kennett made it "apparent that these and future tragedies might be avoided through more efficient management of the National Storm Warning System.

Symington said in a statement to an Appropriations subcommittee that because of mechanical delays in the radar warning system and lack of personnel at relay centers some broadcast stations were not notified in time to warn Bootheel residents of the impending danger.

Relay centers for the transmission of weather warnings are located in St. Louis, Memphis and Louisville.

Symington said a new interstate direct communication line has been installed between the weather service forecast office in St. Louis and the state relay station in Memphis, a suggestion he said was made by the Kennett newspaper.

The senator also said that the forecast office in Louisville, which did not relay some of the severe weather warnings on Nov. 24, has been instructed to transmit on its state wire all warnings which cover an area within 100 miles of the state boundaries.

WINNIPEG (AP) — The National Touring Office of the Canada Council has told the Royal Winnipeg Ballet that the company will receive $50,000 to present "The Nutcracker" in five cities in late January and during February.

The cities are Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Saskatoon.

Two tractor trailers will transport the scenery, which was designed and built in Germany, supervised by Jurgen Rose. Choreography is by John Neumeier.

Allen charged with bad checks

CHARLESTON — Fletcher Allen, 35, of Charleston, has beencharged with issuing bad checks, according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith, who arrested Allen Tuesday afternoon in Charleston.

The charge was filed on a $10 bad check written to the Martin Oil Co. station on a First Security State Bank check.

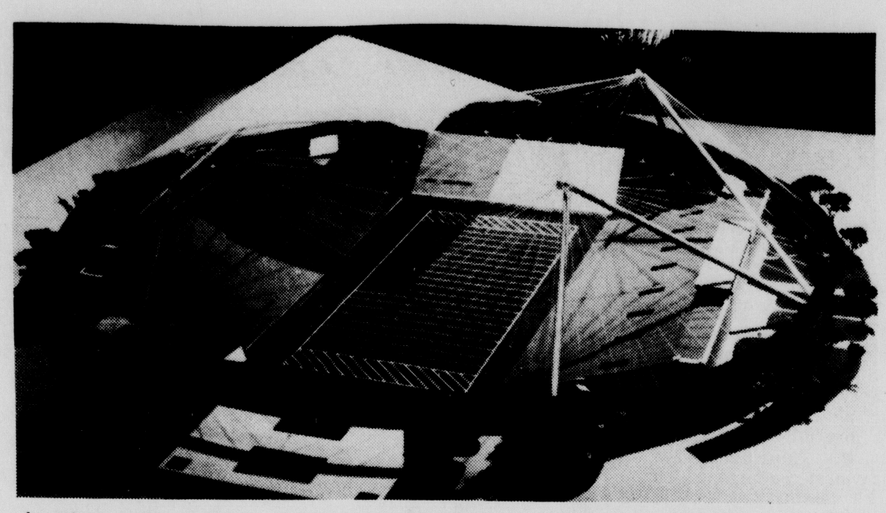
Several other bad checks reportedly have been written in the city, Smith said.

Halter arrested

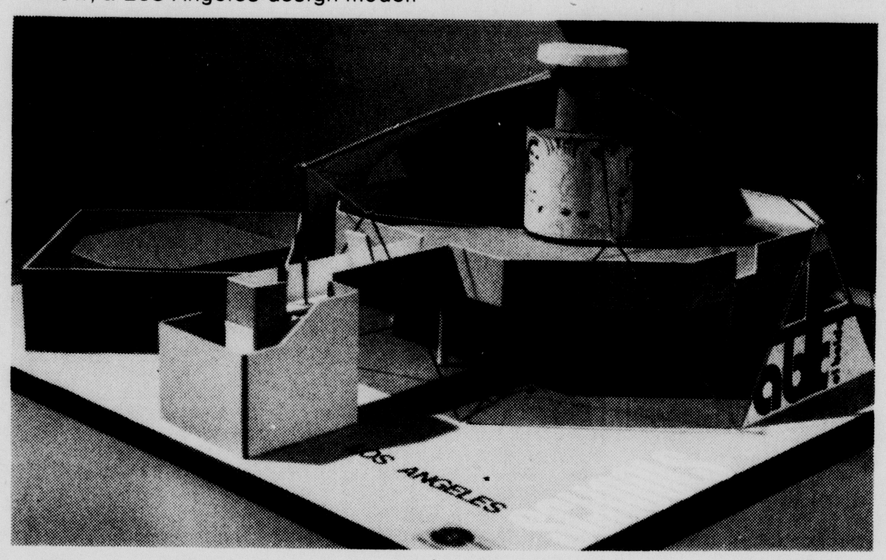
ORAN — William Halter of Oran was arrested at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday by Scott County Sheriff's deputies for discharging a firearm within the Oran city limits.

The sheriff's office said he was intoxicated and was firing the gun from the house to the yard.

He was being held this morning in the Scott County Jail in Benton.



Another major project, shown in model above, is planned for Las Vegas. Four A-frame steel masts would support the Teflon-coated translucent Fiberglass roof. The technique is also applicable to other public structures such as schools. Below, a Los Angeles design model.



Rural counties bounce back

WASHINGTON — "There are encouraging indicators that some of our rural counties are bouncing back," says Missouri 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison in assessing recent federal census information.

In a release from his Washington office, the Cape Girardeau, Mo., Democrat noted that most rural counties had struggled almost three decades to halt the decline in population.

An estimate for the three years 1970-72 discloses that 10 counties of the 10th District which lost population between the 1960 and 1970 censuses have registered gains.

The 10 counties and the estimated population gains include: Perry, 600; Madison, 600; Bollinger, 200; Wayne, 1,000; Carter, 300; Butler, 2,200; Stoddard, 800; New Madrid, 1,300; Dunklin, 1,500 and Pemiscot, 500.

Burlison said a number of considerations may be responsible for the trend. "Maybe the restraints of urban life and improvement in the rural sector is a factor. We have more industrial employment in some areas.

"Certainly not to be overlooked," Burlison added, "is the strong and surging market for our staple agricultural commodities of soy beans, cotton, wheat and corn."

Hearst hopes distribution brings daughter's freedom

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Newspaper magnate Randolph A. Hearst says he hopes the $2 million food distribution program prompted by demands from his daughter's kidnapers can get rolling Friday and bring about her freedom.

Work on setting up the program gets under way today.

"I don't know what to expect. I only hope at this point," Hearst told reporters Tuesday at his home.

"With the $2 million, we can feed 100,000 people a month for 12 months," Hearst said in describing his "Peoples In Need" program. "And it's possible for it to become an ongoing program" for feeding California's poor.

Hearst said the program would be patterned after Washington State's "Neighbors in Need" program, which has distributed tons of food to the poor and needy since heavy heavy cutbacks at Seattle's Boeing Co. brought an unemployment crisis to that state in 1970.

Secretary of State A. Ludlow Kramer of Washington was named to administer the Hearst program.

The Symbionese Liberation Army claims reponsibility for abducting Hearst's daughter Patricia from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. As a precondition for negotiating her release, the group later demanded a food giveaway by Tuesday for California's needy. Miss Hearst turns 20 today.

"The hope I have is that we'll hear from them and they'll release my daughter," declared Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

He said the program was financed by $500,000 of his money and $1.5 million from one of his family's foundations.

The newspaper executive said he decided to use the Washington-style program after being approached earlier Tuesday by Kramer and Peggy Maze, director of "Neighbors In Need."

Kramer, who said the Washington program has contributed $5 million in food to some three million people, said he would start lining up trucks and food outlets today.

Kramer called for 1,000 volunteers to get the first food out by Friday and an entire distribution network set up in two weeks.

Kramer said the program will be designed to work "with any group that says there is a need for food to be distributed in their community. We don't have time for standards. We want to feed people."

were still there," Woodward said, adding that he told Holland to leave and he would talk to him when he (Holland) was feeling better.

"At one point I started to arrest him for public intoxication, but his wife told me that if I wouldn't, she would take him home and take care of him," he said.

Mrs. Woodward testified that Holland telephoned her later that night and asked her where her husband was. "I told him I didn't know and he said 'tell that bastard to call me when he gets home.' I kept asking him what was wrong and he didn't answer," she said.

Mrs. Woodward testified that she did not hear a shot while talking to Holland on the phone.

Sgt. Patterson said Mrs. Holland told him she shot her husband but didn't mean to and was only trying to get his attention.

SENATH — A 25- foot desperation shot at the buzzer by Allen Jackson lifted the New Madrid Indians into the semifinals of the Class AA regional here Tuesday night and past fourth seeded Senath-Hornersville, 50-49. Malden's high scoring Green Wave shot down the Hayti Indians 95-73 to complete the night's final first round action.

Coach Carroll Compton's all- underclassmen team fell behind 12-2 in the first quarter, but battled back with a tight defense and good rebounding to finally overtake the favorites with a 24-17 fourth quarter edge.

Steve Glenn pumped in 20 points to head up to Indians assault, collecting eight big points in the final quarter on tip ins. Kent Waggoner hit 24 for the Lions.

New Madrid will collide with county rival, the Lilbourn Panthers, in Thursday night's opening semifinal round game. North Pemiscot and Malden square off in the nightcap that will send the winners into a Friday evening showdown at 7:30 p.m.

The district's leading offensive team, the Malden Green Wave, bettered their 80 plus per game season average in out- gunning the Hayti Indians 95-73.

Coach Jim Orr's MHS cagers roared into an early 10 point advantage, but had to settle for a 48-43 halftime buldge before putting the game away with a 27-10 third quarter advantage.

Jim Robinson a sharp shooting reserve, set the pace for the Green Wave with 22 points and led a five player double figure barrage. Clarence Sherrod hit 20, Carl Townsend and Calvin Smith 18 each and Leonard Thompson 15 to round out the MHS balance. Sylvester James scored 20 for the Indians leadership.

The winner of the Senath-Hornersville regional will face the Richland champ at Poplar Bluff Feb. 25 at 7:30.

Bearcats topple JHS

By STUART MCGHEE

DEXTER--- Coach Jim Hall's Dexter Bearcats surprised the District Tuesday night as the Bearcats upset the fourth seeded Jackson Indians 88- 57 in the Class AAA Regional Basketball Tournament. This game was followed by Charleston defeating the unseeded Caruthersville Tigers 66- 60.

Coach Hall put the Bearcat offense in gear in the first quarter as the 'Cats scored 14 points and held the Indians to eight. The Dexter lead became more evident in the second quarter with the Bearcats pumping in 23 points while the surprised Indians managed only ten.

The action was closer in the third period with the Bearcats scoring one more point than the Indians with 20. A point effort by Jackson in the fourth quarter fell short as the Bearcats added another 25 points to their lead.

Don Reynolds contributed 22 points to the Dexter victory. Kent Nelson scored 16 for the Indians.

The second game of the night started off on a sour note for the Charleston Blue Jays as the Caruthersville Tigers held a 20- 12 first quarter lead. Charleston tightened their defense in the second quarter allowing only nine points as they put in 19 offensively.

Charleston continued to dominate the game in the third quarter as they scored 17 points and their stingy defense permitted only 17 points. Caruthersville hit hard scoring 24 points in the final period, but the Blue Jays scored 18 points to keep the winning margin.

Marshall Straughter led the Charleston offense scoring 19 points. Gary Walton paced the Tiger team with 12.

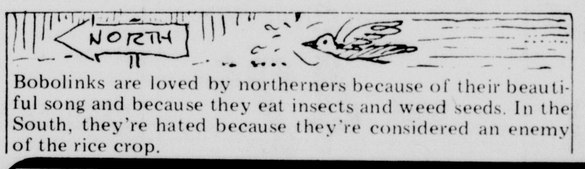
Notre Dame (dark uniforms) and Twin Rivers cagers reach out for the basketball during first round play in the Richland Class AA regional at Richland Tuesday night. The Bulldogs raced into Thursday's semifinals with a convincing victory over the Royals.



Bobolinks are loved by northerners because of their beautiful song and because they eat insects and weed seeds. In the South, they're hated because they're considered an enemy of the rice crop.

Showdown Thursday

By BILL HARRISON

ESSEX — The Neelyville Tigers and the Notre Dame Bulldogs will collide in the semi- finals of the Richland Class AA regional tournament Thursday night at 8 p.m. by virtue of their wins here Tuesday night. Coach Terry Tomlinson's Tigers beat IS-C 76-56 and coach Ed Arnzen's Bulldogs whipped Twin Rivers 83-64.

In the first game of the night NHS took advantage of ISC turnovers and cold shooting by the Rams in the first period. ISC managed to stay in the game despite the turnovers as NHS led 11-10 after the initial period.

The miscues began to take their toll in the second quarter as the Tigers, led by Gary Purdom, outscored the Rams 22-12 and led 33-22 at the half.

With Purdom hitting the jumper from the 20 foot range the Tigers ran away witn game in the second half. The Rams played respectable on defense but was unable to hold onto the ball on offense and their season came to a close with the defeat.

Purdom finished the game with 27 points. High man for the Rams was Dan Gentry with 16.

The Notre Dame Bulldogs used their height advantage to take care of the Twin River High School (TWHS) Royals. The Bulldogs played sloppy basketball but their ability to outjump the smaller Royals and their zone defense paid dividends as the Bulldogs advanced to the semi- finals Thursday night.

ND took the second period 22-14 after leading in the first period by four, 14-10, but Twin Rivers started shooting better from the outside in the second half to keep the Bulldogs from embarassing them further.

Don Maurer hit a game high of 36 points and David Burke scored 18 for the losing Royals.

ND hit 32 field goals to 30 for TWHS but the Bulldogs hit 19 free shots to only four for the Royals.

Oran upset Matthews

By KAYE PARSONS

ORAN — The Oran Eagles came from behind to defeat the Matthews Pirates 80-77 Tuesday night in the final regular season basketball game for both teams.

The Eagles fell behind in the first quarter 29-20. OHS made a better showing in the second quarter and hit for 20 points while holding the Pirates to 16 for a 45-40 score.

Oran came closer to the mark set by the Pirates in the third quarter as they put away 22 points, three points ahead of the Pirates. The game changed hands in the foruth quarter as Oran pumped in 18 points to give them the lead and the win.

Mat LeGrand put 25 points on the score board for the Eagles as Armond Portet matched this figure for the Pirates.

In the Junior Varsity game the Pirates edged out the Eagles by one point 80-79. Jim Anderson paced the Eagles with 25 points and Jim McCaster scored 23 for the Pirates.

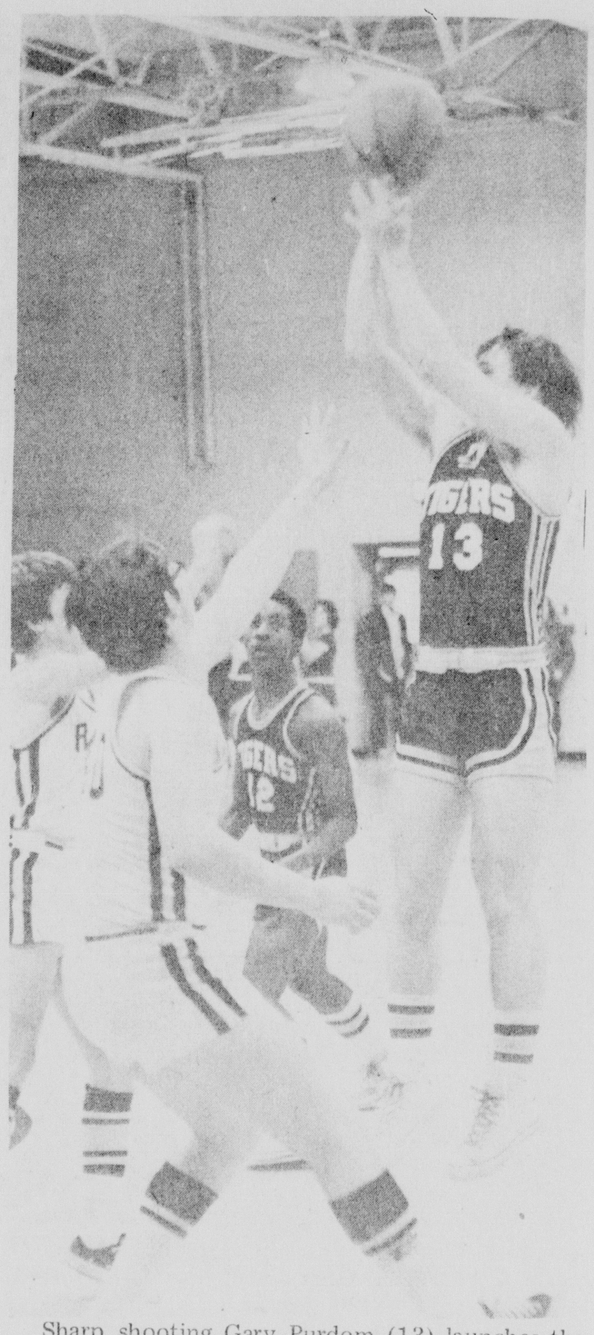
Sports in brief

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Dr. Roland Lombard of Wayland, Mass., is the Anchorage Fur Rendezvous World Dog Mushing Champion for the eighth time. Lombard won $3,300 in competition which ended Sunday. He last was champion in 1971.

BUFFALO (AP) — Don Calhoun, a running back from Kansas State, became the sixth rookie to sign with the Buffalo Bills when he agreed to terms Monday, the National Football League club announced.

Calhoun was the Bills' second 10th- round draft choice in the 1974 NFL draft. He was drafted in the 32nd round by Philadelphia of the fledgling World Football League.



Sharp shooting Gary Purdom (13) launches the basketball toward the goal during first round action in Class AA regional at Richland Tuesday night. Purdom led the Neelyville Tigers past Illmo- Scott City and into a showdown against the Notre Dame Bulldogs Thursday night.

Bulldogs lose pair

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. — Coach N. P. McDaniel's Sikeston, Mo., high school Bulldog basketball team fell behind 16-zip in the first quarter and never recovered enough to even threaten the hot- shooting Blytheville Chickasaws here Tuesday night. The 87-65 loss by the Bulldogs was their eighth in nine starts on the road this year, and added even more to the confusion in the minds of their followers. After two wins last week Sikeston seemed to be gaining momentum for the upcoming 4-A regional at Cape Girardeau next week. But, after the trouncing handed them by the Arkansawers, SHS fans have to wonder about their team's chances against the four other "big" schools they will be fighting at Houck fieldhouse starting next Tuesday.

It was a case of just too much Blytheville shooting as the hosts ran up a 50-23 halftime lead. The eventual winners connected on a scintilating 70 per cent of their shots in the first half, aided on many occasions by the bad Sikeston defensive effort. Numerous times BHS players were able to slip behind the ineffective Sikeston defense and score "cripple" buckets, a factor that aided Bruce Hay in scoring 13 points in the second quarter and end the game with 17. Six- foot- 2 Ricky Meador was the game's top scorer and rebounder as he simply outclassed any Bulldog that tried to guard him and scored 24 points while grabbing ten rebounds.

The only Bulldogs even close to the target was 5- foot- 9 Vangalee West. He hit half of his 16 shots and scored 18 points to lead the Sikeston scorers. Roy Bowman added 11 and Roger Tillman ten, but both inside men for Sikeston were unable to cope with the opposition's inside talent and each suffered through poor shooting nights.

The Bulldogs outscored Blytheville in the second half, 42-37, as their shooters began to connect and they were able to give the Chicks more opposition on the boards. But, the second halfs totals for Sikeston undoubtable were aided by the full- scale substituting going on from the Blytheville bench. Before the game was over Blytheville coach Jim Robinson had played all fourteen players who suited for the game. Ten of those scored despite the coach's efforts to hold the score down.

After that super- hot first half, Blytheville cooled off somewhat in the second half and ended the game with a 47.6 shooting percentage. Sikeston, on the other hand, hit 57 per cent of their second half shots to end the game with a 42.2 per cent mark.

The Bulldogs missed several free throws, hitting just 11 of twenty. Blytheville was some better, connecting on nine of 14 tries.

Ten rebounds by Meador and eight by postman Richard Woodard helped Blytheville to a 42-35 edge on the boards. They grabbed 20 of the 31 first half caroms. Roy Bowman's eight grabs led Sikeston. Roger Tillman had seven.

Blytheville didn't present a real tough defense although it did sparkly beside the Sikeston effort. Sikeston, mostly on bad passes, lost the ball 17 times and the Chicks were guilty of just 13 miscues.

A very fine Sikeston crowd made the 75 - mile trip to Blytheville and supported both of their teams through one- sided losses. With the support at a peak, the Sikeston team will undoubtedly try to give a better performance at Cape Central this Friday night. Sikeston will take an overall 7-12 record into that contest.

The second quarter was the difference for the Sikeston junior varsity at Blytheville. The jayvees, who have dropped two of their last three, were blasted 77-40 by a revenge- minded Blytheville B-team. In the first game of the year Sikeston had defeated Blytheville 55-51. The loss dropped the Sikeston record to 14-3. Blytheville is now 15-5.

Blytheville used a great rebounding advantage and poor Sikeston shooting to outscore them 28-2 in that fateful second quarter and put the game away. Both teams had scored eight in the first frame and the big period gave the Chicks a 36-10 halftime lead.

The Sikeston press put a small nick in the deficit in the third period, but Blytheville came back in the last frame to more than double the Sikeston total.

Cards lose

IRONTON — Arcadia Valley rallied from 14 points behind to tie the Clearwater Tigers, only to drop the game in overtime 55-53 and Crystal City beat the Woodland Cardinals 68-43 in the Class AA regional here Tuesday night.

Clearwater had the game in hand as the Tigers ran up a 14-8 first period lead against AVHS and outscored their opponent 16-11 in the second quarter.

After the intermission Clearwater added to their lead by pouring in 15 points to 12 for AVHS.

Coach David Bone put the press on in the last eight minutes and rallied for 20 points while CHS was netting only six to tie the game before the buzzer.

The Tigers scored four points in the overtime period to only two for AVHS to win the game.

Cary Barks was the big threat for the Tigers with 27 points. Johnny Carr hit 24 for AVHS.

CCHS had little trouble with the WHS Cardinals after the first eight minutes. CHS led 36-25 at the half and the Cardinals were held to only five points in the third period. Gary Black hit 20 for Woodland and Bill Tessereau scored 22 for CCHS

Potosi romps

FLAT RIVER — In the first round of the Class AAA Regional Tournament here Tuesday night, the Potosi Trojans advanced into semi-finals as the first seeded Trojans defeated Flat River Central 69-37, and Fredericktown downed the DeSoto Dragons 63-53.

In the first game of the night Coach Bill Bradley's FRC Rebels' fell behind in the first quarter only scoring five points to their credit, as the Trojans rambled on scoring 15 points in the first quarter and continued their hold throughout the game.

The Rebels only scored two points in the third quarter to the Trojans 13 points. The fourth quarter brought 22 points to the 23-2 Trojans, and the Rebels could only account for 16.

Potosi's overall record now stands at 23-2.

Ten players saw action for Potosi, with Joe Woodland scoring 19 points for the high. Curt Bouyer and John Black each hit ten points apiece for the Rebel's top efforts.

In the second game of the night, the DeSoto Dragons fell to the Fredericktown Blackcats.

The first quarter score was tied at 18 apiece, but the Blackcats broke loose in the second period and scored 12 points and held the Dragons to eight points.

The Dragons had FHS in the press during the third quarter and overpowered them 20-15 for the third period score, but their attempt fell short in the fourth quarter as the Blackcats regained their strength and held the Dragons to seven points as they scored 18 in the final period.

James Saylor, with 18 points, was the high Dragon, followed by double figure scores from Hedger with 12, and Gray with 13. John Nations led the Blackcat attempt with 21 points.

Glidewell cited

MEMPHIS— Ken Glidewell, manager of Federal Compress & Warehouse Co. facilities in Sikeston, Mo., has been awarded a citation and check for outstanding performance in the company's leasing incentive program.

The presentation was made by Sam Hollis, president of Southwide, Inc., and Stan Graber, president of Southwide Development Co., Inc. Southwide, Inc. is the parent company of Federal Compress and Southwide Development.

Approximately 173,000 additional square feet of space have been leased by the company since the incentive program was initiated last fall.

Through its subsidiaries, Southwide operates more than 30 million square feet of warehouse space at a hundred locations in 87 cities of the Mid- South and Far West. It continues a cotton and warehouse service business established more than 85 years ago and today is the country's largest.

Southwide Development, the subsidiary, has leased seven million square feet of space since 1972 and offers a variety of services. These include existing, new, remodeled and custom- remodeled warehouses, as well as new space designed especially for the customer.

'Paper Moon' opens Friday

Peter Bogdanovich's production of "Paper Moon", starring Ryan O'Neal, will return to Mall Theatre at Kingsway Plaza Mall Friday.

"Paper Moon", a Directors Company presentation for Paramount Pictures release, introduces 9 - year - old Tatum O'Neal, O'Neal's real- life daughter, to the screen and co-stars Madeline Kahn and John Hillerman.

Filmed on location in Kansas and Missouri, the Saticoy Production is the tale of an unlikely alliance between a down- at - the- heels con artist and a hard- bitten young girl who turns out to be better at the game than he is. The film is directed and produced by Peter Bogdanovich, whose previous directorial achievements are "Targets", "The Last Picture Show" and "What's Up, Doc?"

The screenplay for "Paper Moon", written by Alvin Sargent, was based on the novel, "Addie Pray", by Joe David Brown.

Business buys airplane

OFMCO, an office furniture company in Sikeston, has just purchased a new airplane. The plane, a twin- engine 1974 Piper Navajo Chieftain, replaces an older twin- engine plane. Shirley Dyer attends meeting

COLUMBIA — The Graduate Realtors Institute held educational sessions at the Ramada Inn in Columbia Feb. 11-15 sponsored by the Missouri Association of Realtors.

Among the students who attended the semi- annual seminar were: Shirley A. Dyer of Sikeston.

The Realtors Institute of Missouri offers a well rounded course of study and practical training to increase the professional competence of Realtors and Realtor-associates. Approved by the National Association of Realtors, the courses are produced and presented by the educational committee of the Missouri Association of Realtors.

The faculty consists of outstanding specialists in the field of real estate and sales.

Candidates who successfully completed the curriculum offered by the institute receive the National designation known as GRI (Graduate, Realtors Institute).

Williams previews air conditioners

ST. LOUIS — Lloyd Williams, owner of Hazel-Williams, Inc. in Sikeston, was one of 500 midwestern air conditioning dealers attending a meeting here to preview a new Carrier line of high efficiency residential air conditioners.

Officials said the new outdoor condensing units, available in the most frequently used two, two and one- half and Three- ton capacities, provide more cooling per watt of electric power used and do it more quietly than any of their kind yet announced.

The meeting was one of nine Carrier Corp. is conducting around the country to acquaint its 4,500 franchised dealers with new products and business developments within the industry. Residential air conditioning, the industry's largest market by far, is now a $3.4 billion business nationally.

Life Insurance Week begins

JEFFERSON CITY — The office of Gov. Christopher S. Bond was the site of activities highlighting the beginning of Life Insurance Week in Missouri.

Sponsored by the Missouri Association of Life Underwriters, Life Insurance Week is being devoted to a variety of public service activities throughout the state.

Gov. Bond signed an official document proclaiming the event and presented scholarship awards to the winners of the first annual Life Underwriters Essay Contest, a MALU-sponsored program.

The contest winners were selected from over 100 high school seniors entering competition throughout the state. Scholarship awards of $500, $200 and $100 were presented to the three winners.

Roy M. Maddux, chartered life underwriter and president of MALU, said many of the organization's 2,300 members are conducting public service programs this week.

"Several community-centered projects have been scheduled by local life underwriter groups. Particularly noteworthy are the many seminars dealing with the purchasing and use of life insurance," Maddux added.

Hill to manage new store

POPLAR BLUFF— Paul E. Hill, an employe of P. N. Hirsch & Co. Department Stores for seven years, has been named manager of the company's new Mansion Mall Shopping Center store on Highway 67 North.

A native of Sikeston, Hill was first employed in the company's Sparta, Ill., store. He transferred to Benton, Ky., for his first assignment as a store manager. He moved from Benton to Mounds, Ill., where he managed a company store for four years until he was transferred to New Madrid.

After managing the New Madrid store for one year, Hill was transferred here for the opening of the company's second Poplar Bluff store last week. A grand opening event is planned for the Mansion Mall store late in March but the store opened last week with a full line of merchandise.

Hill's wife is the former Miss Sue Cantrell, also a native of Sikeston. They have two children, Clay Allen, 3, and Paul Jr., 7. They are making their home at 521 N. Riverview.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Farm commodity futures prices were firm to strong in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, wheat was 1 to 6 cents a bushel higher, March 6.31; corn was 1 to 2 1/2 higher, March 3.22; oats were 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher. March 1.71 and soybeans were 1/2 to 4 higher, March 6.51.

Students, faculty vow to continue

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dissident students and dismissed faculty members marched from the campus of the severely divided Concordia Lutheran Seminary here Tuesday, vowing to continue their education for the ministry in exile.

The climax of the month-long dispute that has threatened to split the 3 million member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in two followed the firing of 40 of the 50 faculty members, who refused to discontinue the class boycott over the Jan. 20 suspension of Dr. John H. Tietjen as seminary president.

Terming the dismissals "unChristian and immoral," a student statement said, "We find it impossible in good conscience to continue our education under the present seminary Board of Control."

About 500 students, who staged an emotional demonstration before leaving the campus that saw the statue of Martin Luther draped in black crepe, voted to follow the ousted faculty members to a "Seminary in Exile" operating at the St. Louis University School of Divinity and Eden Theological Seminary in St. Louis.

Classes at the "Seminary in Exile" were to begin this morning, but representatives of both intervening schools said the "joint project for theological education" was being set up only to assist the dissident students in completing their academic programs.

"This joint educational effort in no way involves a judgement about the internal affairs of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod or the controversies which are at present taking place within the synod," a joint statement from St. Louis University and Eden Seminary said.

The university is "assisting academically a group of students who found it almost impossible to continue their education in the particular set of circumstances in which they found themselves," the Rev. E. J. Drummond, executive vice president of Roman Catholic university said.

The rift, which has been simmering since the synod's convention last summer in New Orleans, centers around how literally the Bible can be interpreted. It erupted when Dr. Tietjen was suspended in connection with charges of teaching false doctrine and malfeasance in office.

The controlling board of the seminary, which produces 65 per cent of the synod's pastors, discharged the 40 faculty members after saying it could no longer tolerate their illegal strike. The Rev. E. J. Otto, board chairman, said after that action on Monday that no further efforts would be made at reconciliation with dissident students and faculty members.

SOME PEOPLE keep the strangest pets, although it's really not quite that strange. John C. Stark of New York's American Museum of Natural History puts finishing touches on a new exhibit in the Hall of Reptiles.

Black bear is marvel of the animal world

ST. LOUIS — Surviving a freezing winter in an energy crisis is not easy for people. But black bears, bats, woodchucks, skunks, badgers and other animals, as well as insects, are curled up in their caves and holes, sleeping the winter away.

The winter sleep of the black bear is an unparalleled marvel in the natural world. Bears begin to den early in October. Denning is complete by December and usually lasts until April. From three to five months during the winter the black bear undergoes a metamorphosis. The rate of breathing drops drastically, the body temperature falls, and the heart beats only eight times a minute instead of 40 times as in summer.

During hibernation, the black bear does not eat, drink or eliminate any waste products. Unlike some other hibernators, who feel cold to the touch andseem in a state of almost suspended breathing, black bears are easily arounsed and fully able to protect themselves almost immediately.

Most incredible of all, the female bear actually gives birth to cubs and nurses them in January, midway through the winter sleep. By some metabolic miracle, the mother bear can produce enough calories and protein to maintain herself and enough milk to support growth of her cubs from her own body stores -- without taking any food or water herself.

The body mechanisms of the black bear are fascinating scientists, who are hoping to discover new facts about breathing, nutrition and water and protein metabolism. Now even space scientists are investigating the fabulous black bear and considering prolonged bear flights to planets and stars that have so far been off limits because of food and water soorage problems.

The American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri has little information about the winter breathing habits of black bears, but it does know a great deal about breathing problems of human beings. Ask them for the facts by writing the office at 911 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo. 63101, or phoning 241-1554.

Frankly speaking

Senator urges rollback of propane gas prices

Propane Prices Must Be Rolled Back

Congressional passage of the Emergency Energy Bill has been too long delayed. However, it was the first order of business when the Senate reconvened February 18.

Opposition to the bill focuses in large part on an amendment I co- sponsored with Senator Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) to roll back oil prices to the January 1973 level. Among other things, this means that the price of propane -- which is now between 30 and 40 cents per gallon - would be substantially reudced.

The amendment is part of the energy bill conference report which both the House and Senate are expected to vote on this week.

If for any reason the bill does not pass, I am prepared to introduce and push for quick passage of separate legislation to specifically roll back the price of propane to the January 1973 level, allowing increases only if they can be fully justified.

Propane Price Rises Unjustified

The 300 or more per cent increases which have occurred in the price of propane since January 1973 are totally unjustified. Higher prices will not induce increased production. Seventy per cent of the nation's propane is a by-product of natural gas, which remains under tight price controls.

Nor will the higher prices lead to a decreased demand as more and more people have turned to propane as a substitute for dwindling supplies of natural gas. Propane is used and cooking and many of heating and cookiand manh of the users are on low or fixed incomes.

The propane sitauation is being aggravated by operation of what amounts to a "legal black market." Some enterprising brokers, who foresaw the short supply of natural gas and knew that more people would be forced to turn to propane, bought up large amounts of propane at last year's low prices.

Now with the demand greater than the supply, they are selling propane for exorbitant prices and lining their pockets with the money of those who have little choice about buying the product. For them it is either pay the price or go without heat and hot meals.

FEO Investigating

I have called on Energy Administrator William Simon to look into this sitaution and I have since been informed that the Fedearl Energy Office is now actively investigating the brokering operation.

But we can't wait for the results of an investigation to do something about the intolerable price increases of propane. My office is flooded with pleas for help from Missourians who feel their lifeblood is being taken from them.

It is imperative that the increases be stopped now and propane prices rolled back.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

Didn't you know that I had to be in my Father's house? (Luke 2:49)

PRAYER: Our Father, in these rushed days of many concerns for business, school, and family, help us to take time to be in Thy house and to have concern for our neighbor. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Cravens is recent gradu

Cadet Michael A. Cravens of Sikeston recently became one of the first graduating seniors at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau to receive notification of his active duty Air Force assignment following completion of Reserve Officers Training Corps requirements.

Cravens selected missile duty as his career choice and will serve as missile launch officer in the Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile weapon system.

To prepare for his new duties, he will first participate in a 13 -week technical training course at Vandenbury Air Force Base in California.

Upon completion of the course, Cravens will then be stationed with the 341st Strategic Missile Wing, at Malstrom Air Force Base in Great Falls, Mont. His training starts May 25, following SeMo State graduation exercises at which he will receive a commission as a second lieutenant.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Red Schoendienst, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, will have two new men in his 1974 outfield. They are Reggie Smith, obtained from the Boston Red Sox, and 24-year-old rookie Bake McBride.

Washington report

Legislation would control red tape for businessman

WASHINGTON, D. C. — All too often small businessmen are overwhelmed by the red tape and paperwork involved in completing Federal reports. This massive burden costs American small business an estimated $18 to $50 billion annually.

I have cosponsored legislation now before the Senate Government Operations Committee which would require Congressional Committees to include in reports on all new legislation an assessment of the amount of paperwork that would be required if the bill were enacted.

Often, information sought by new legislation can be obtained from exisiting Federal reports, or in a less complicated manner than proposed by government agencies.

As a former businessman, I can appreciate the burden imposed by "red tape", and hope we can act to check some of the excessive reporting requirements placed on small businessmen.

TAX CHECK OFF. When we file our federal income tax forms between now and April 15, each of us can help pay for the 1976 Presidential campaign without additional cost

By checking a box on line 8 of From 1040 and 1040A each of us may direct $1 of our federal income tax payments to a bipartisan Presidential Election Campaign Fund. The Democratic and Republican nominees will each get the same amount - 15 cents per eligible voter over 18 years of age.

Minor parties which poll 5 percent of more of the vote in a Presidential election will receive a sum in proportion to the number of their votes.

Congress passed the legislation to help bring an end to the dependence by Presidential candidates on large political contributions and to encourage all citizens to support the presidential election process.

For taxpayers who did not use this option on last year's return, another check off box is provided above the signature line. This permits the taxpayer to designate $1 per person or $2 per couple on a joint return to go into the same presidential campaign fund.

Missouri Interstate Highways On Road To Completion

The Missouri Highway Department reports that our State has finished 925 of its planned 1,147 mile Interstate Highway System.

Missouri was the first state to begin construction on the Interstate system in 1956 when work started on Interstate Route 70 in St. Charles County.

BROCK SET RECORD

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals set a major league record in 1973 by stealing 50 or more bases for the ninth straight year. Brock stole 70 bases, highest total of his career. It moved him into ninth place on the all-time stolen base list with 635.

Save 10¢. And let your taste settle the salad dressing question, once and for all.

In salad dressing, it's flavor that counts. Miracle Whip Salad Dressing's lively fresh flavor comes from a special blend of spices and a blending secret that is Kraft's alone. Miracle Whip is perfect just the way it is. Once you compare it with some of the "me-too" dressings we're sure you'll agree, no matter what, there's only one Miracle Whip. And that's why Miracle Whip makes a sandwich, a salad, seafood or cold cuts taste so fresh and lively. And why Miracle Whip is America's favorite salad dressing.

COOKING-UP

Readers,

This week's column is dedicated to my husband's mother, Mrs. Fred Lucey of Benton, and his grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Mobbs of Bell City, who donated the recipes to me when Tony and I were married because the foods were his favorites.

They are terrific and easy to make. Hope they become your family's favorites, too.

Also included are Pecan Puffs, contributed by Margaret Manley, circulation department secretary for The Daily Standard.

Judy Stricklin

RAISIN PIE

2 cups seedless raisins
2 cups water
½ cup brown sugar, packed
2 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tsp cinnamon
1/8 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. vinegar
Pastry for double 9-inch crust.

Boil raisins in 1 ¾ cups water for five minutes.

Combine brown sugar, conrstarch, cinnamon and salt. Moisten with the remaining ¼ cup water. Add raisins and stir until mixture boils.

Remove from heat. Add butter and vinegar.

YORK COOKIES

1 cup margarine
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 eggs
2 tbsp. milk
1 tsp. soda
½ tsp. nutmeg
2 tbsp. orange juice

Cream margarine and sugar. Gradually add flour.

Beat together eggs and milk and add to margarine mixture. Add soda, nutmeg and juice and spread this on cookie sheet.

Sprinkle with sugar and bake at 375 degrees until golden brown.

Cut into squares.

CRESCENT ROLLS

2 cups lukewarm water (not hot)
1 pkg. yeast
4 ½ cups sifted flour
2 tsp. salt
1/3 cup cooking oil
3 tbsp. sugar

Stir yeast in water until dissolved. Add salt, oil and sugar to yeast mixture, then add flour. Mix with hands until dough is soft.

On flour board kneed five or six times.

Then put dough in greased bowl and put in a warm place until bulk doubles, usually 1½ to 2 hours.

Put on slightly floured board and cut into diamond shapes. Leave on floured board until dough again doubles.

Then spread with margarine and roll into crescent rolls.

Bake in 425-degree oven until golden brown.

PECAN PUFFS

½ lb. margarine
4 tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. vanilla
2 cups sifted flour
2 cups ground pecans

Cream margarine and sugar. Add vanilla, flour and pecans.

Mix well and bake ½ hour at 325 degrees.

TWIN CHEESECAKES A LA CARTON

Ever since the days of the ancient Greeks and Romans, cheesecake has been a favorite dessert. Today, chefs all over the world vie to make the best cheesecake.

Most recipes call for a special spring-form pan, but this cheesecake needs no unusual equipment. An empty paperboard milk carton makes a perfect pan and gives a new shape to this old favorite.

We like to make two loaves at one time and freeze one for another day. Or serve both loaves for a larger party. The rich, creamy cake is made with milk, cream cheese, eggs and whipped cream. Pineapple and cherries on top give a festive look.

TWIN CHEESECAKES A LA CARTON

2 milk cartons (1 quart each), empty
1-2/3 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup butter, melted
3/4 cup sugar
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup milk
3 eggs, separated
1 pound cream cheese
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
grated rind of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup heavy cream
2 slices pineapple, candied cherries

Rinse out paperboard milk cartons and let dry.

Turn paperboard milk cartons on their sides. Cut down the center of one side of each carton, top to bottom, and open up like double doors by cutting each side. Close pouring ends of cartons and secure with tape.

Combine graham cracker crumbs with melted butter and 1/4 cup of the sugar, mixing thoroughly. Spoon half of mixture into each carton, pressing crumbs down.

In top of double boiler, mix gelatin and remaining 1/2 cup of sugar thoroughly. Beat milk and egg yolks together and add to gelatin mixture.

Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved, about five minutes.

Remove from heat. Beat cream cheese until soft; beat in gelatin mixture, lemon juice, rind and vanilla. Let cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. Whip cream. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into cheese mixture.

Pour into milk cartons and chill in refrigerator until firm.

To serve, cut cartons open and peel away the sides. Slide a knife under crust to loosen, then with a spatula, slide cakes onto serving platter. Decorate with pineapple and cherries.

Makes two cakes of 8 servings each.

Note: If desired, serve one cake immediately and freeze the second for later use.

Cheesecake may be frozen in the paperboard milk carton after sealing open side with tape. Let thaw before serving.

Cheesecake is easy

An empty paperboard milk carton makes a perfect pan and gives new shape to this old dessert, cheesecake. We like to make two loaves at a time and freeze one for another day.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

If you want to take chances, the lad across from us has a pocketful of them all the time.

Your moochin' friend probably has all the money you need.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

And you disgusting males who wander off to work each day and then have the audacity to make cruel and unkind remarks to your wife each evening when you return home and find her climbing the walls. Well, in answer to your pet and favorite question and answer which seems to be quoted by all of you (oh, if man would only come up with some originality), and is, "Why are you so up tight and frustrated?" "I'm the one who has to work all day and make the living while all you do is sit at home and watch television!" Well, I give you chauvinist males the answer as to why today I happen to be a little bit dottier than usual and it is —

After getting hubby and the children out the door in the morning, which I might add is no mean feat in itself and which has already started the tic in my right eye to jumping, then here went some of the rest of the items I had on my agenda to do! One, I had a leg on a table that needed tightened — but do you think after one and one half hours of steady searching the house from attic to cellar I ever found the tool chest — nay, I did not, so file table away to work on another day if and when the tools ever reappear. Next, while looking into corners I discovered my fishing gear tossed about so I thought I'd best get it ready for summer, but do you think I ever found the reel to my rod? Wrong again, this time I found what I was looking for, only I wish I hadn't. It was mournfully and in a thousand tangles attached to a kite someone in my domain had been flying and you wouldn't believe what a mess it was in. Oh well, I never catch any fish anyway, guess I'll just go out with a string and a safety pin. Then, I thought (and why I don't know as they're all obnoxious), I'd make an apple pie for dinner with the apples I bought the day before — what apples? Guess that saved me a little time and trouble, course on looking around I spotted several other items I'd purchased the day before that were now missing and if I even wanted to get dinner on the table at all that would mean a trip to the grocery store I hadn't bargained on during my busy (accomplishing nothing), day I had planned. Anyway, I'm running out of space to write in, but do you old males at least get an inkling of why your dear spouse has almost flipped her lid out of pure frustration by the end of the day? I mean, I just double dog dare Charles to waltz in today and say one unkind word to me, cause if he does, boy,! just address his mail to the hospital for the next week if you want it to reach him.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Cottage Cheese Is Good for You

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I eat cottage cheese every day for protein but wondered if I might be getting too much calcium. I am in my late 60s and have arthritis. Would all this cottage cheese have an adverse effect on the arthritis?

Dear Reader — All that cottage cheese is probably good for you. There are only a few people who have basic underlying metabolic problems who can't utilize large amounts of calcium in their diets. The problem usually is just the opposite, that people aren't getting enough calcium. Women, in particular, need large amounts of calcium to prevent the decalcification of the spine and other bones that occurs after the change of life. The decalcification of the spine past middle age in women is responsible for the large number of women that you see who have a hump in their back and otherwise begin to lose their height.

The decalcification is related to the changes in hormones and is much more likely to occur in women who are not getting enough calcium in their diet. This is why I always recommend that from some source, women particularly, should get the same amount of calcium that's present in a quart of milk on a daily basis. One of these good sources is cottage cheese. Another is canned salmon (particularly if you eat the bones that are in it). In the interest of keeping down calories and also if a person needs to limit the fat intake, in the diet to prevent fatty deposits in the arteries and other problems, one can use the uncreamed cottage cheese and the fortified skim milk.

There seems to be a common idea among people with arthritis that their problem is caused by too much calcium. This is completely wrong. Arthritis is not caused or made worse by having too much calcium in the diet.

Enjoy your cottage cheese. It's a good source of protein and calcium.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I was glad to read your recent article on hiatal hernia, as I have one. I have been thinking about getting a slant board to use for stimulating other parts of my body for short periods each day. This is arranged so that the feet are at least 15 inches higher than the head. Now I have been wondering if this would be bad for the hernia. I do sleep with the head of my bed elevated but I didn't know until I read your column that you shouldn't bend over to pick things up.

Dear Reader — Forget about the slant board. Remember that a hiatal hernia literally has the effect of a hole in the diaphragm and the problem all begins when the stomach begins to slide through the hole. As long as you're standing upright and there's not too much pressure in the abdomen, this is not inclined to happen. That's why the head of the bed is elevated. If you use a slant board or do any other type of exercise in which the head is lower than the feet you're apt to cause the hernia to slide through the hole in the diaphragm.

In general, people who have hiatal hernia should not do exercises that use the abdominal muscle, such as sit-ups, until after their stomach has had a chance to completely empty. And after having done a period of sit-ups it probably would be a good idea to either sit, or better, sand up for a period of time to make sure that any tendency for the stomach to herniate into the diaphragm will at least be minimized.

TV game-show developer tries second novel

NEW YORK (AP) — Even though he gave television "The Dating Game" nine years ago, Chuck Barris isn't all bad. For one thing, he doesn't wear ties, which in my book automatically makes him a good citizen.

For another, he's working on his second novel, "The Game Show," in which he says the hero, a TV game-show packager, finds "a good way to boost his ratings by killing contestants on the air."

Some might say this is what eventually happens to the mind of a 44-year-old Philadelphian — I have reference to Barris — who is one of Hollywood's most successful developers of TV game shows.

But he just grins and denies it.

"I'm just trying to write a book of the absurd with television in mind," he says, adding that he's not out to commit an expose' of the game-show business or anything like that.

"I don't want to crusade," he says. "I just want to do a book that's entertaining and show just how crazy network television is."'

Barris, a short, soft-spoken millionaire who appears the sort of guy who laughs because he suspects the world is mad, said he's been on a sabbatical from TV since September to promote his first novel.

It's called "You and Me, Babe," and is sort of a gameshow "Love Story" except that the rich heroine doesn't die at the end. She only leaves the hero, an unsuccessful novelist who strikes it rich in the gameshow business.

It is what critics call a "thinly disguised autobiography."

The labor occurred in the south of France in 1971. Barris still thinks of the period as "maybe the best four or five months of my life."

In coming months, he said, he'll work on a motion picture version of the book. But he's going at it like the experienced producer he is, not like the starry-eyed first novelist he is.

In short, none of his own personal loot will be in the picture.

"That's a very emotional thing to do," he said. "Some say, 'Well, if we don't get a studio to do it, we have millions of dollars in the company, and we'll produce it ourselves.'

What's the law?

The case of the irate voter

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

While a rose by any other name may smell just as sweet, Cindy- Loo had no intention of yielding up her maiden name when she got married. What's more, she didn't.

She exclusively and consistently retained and used her maiden name at all times and for all things. However, when the election board belatedly discovered she had gotten married, she was directed to reregister to vote under her married name.

"I will do no such male chauvinistic thing," fumed Cindy-Loo in response. "I'm entitled to my own individual identity and no one can take it away from me."

"That may be true," retorted a member of the election board. "But under the law, a person must register to vote under his legal name. And, when you got married, your husband's surname became your legal name. Consequently, unless you reregister under it, we're going to cancel your registration."

Spitting mad, Cindy- Loo took the matter to court where she demanded that the election board be restrained from cancelling her registration.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the election board to cancel irate Cindy- Loo's registration?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while a womam may choose to adopt her husband's surname on marriage, and more often than not does so, a married woman's surname does not, as a matter of law, become that of her husband where she evidences a clear intent to consistently and nonfraudulently use her birth given name subsequent to marriage. In other words, concluded the judge in effect, her legal name is the one she chooses to use consistently and nonfraudulently.

Connie Stevens wants to buy movie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Connie Stevens has offered to buy an American Broadcasting Corp. Movie of the Week, "The Sex Symbol," following the network's decision not to air it as scheduled on March 5.

An ABC spokesman said Monday that the movie, depicting an actress who is driven to drugs and drink, was being withdrawn because it needed more work.

Other reports, however, indicated that ABC's decision could have been influenced by political overtones raised by scenes in the film recounting a romance between the actress and a U.S. senator.

Miss Stevens said: "I thought it (the movie) was ready and I waited a long time for this. It's the finest thing I have ever done."

Interviewed by phone, Miss Stevens, who is currently appearing in Lake Tahoe, Nev., said she had heard the film would not be aired for at least a year. "If it's a year, I'd like to buy it myself," she commented.

One reason for Miss Stevens' disappointment was said to be that if the film is not aired by March 16, she would not be eligible for an Emmy nomination.

The University of Massachusetts held a "Salute to Yogi" at half time during the game with Vermont. "We wanted to honor Yogi Berra not only for his role as manager of the New York Mets, but also for his loyalty to the school over the past years."

Yogi's son, Tim, played split end for Massachusetts and Yogi made several New England trips to see his son play after the World Series ended.

Mrs. J. A. Young returned Sunday from Bertrand, where she had been spending a few days.

One of the very delightful affairs complimentary to Miss Gladys Kendall, who became the bride of James Kevil today, was a four- course luncheon given on Saturday by Miss Irma Wilson at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Rodes on Tanner street. Bridge was enjoyed the balance of the afternoon.

Sikeston boys closed the season with a score of 217 points to opponents 189, though Sikeston lost a majority of the games and all played away from home. Arden Ellise was elected captain for next year.

Ed Wilson and family and J. W. Marshall are now on the road to Colton, Calif., where they will probably make their future home.

TOPS GAME WINNERS

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates led major leaguers last season in game-winning hits. His hits won 23 games for the Pirates. In the American League, Reggie Jackson of the Oakland A's made hits that decided 18 games.

Among American League designated hitters, California's Frank Robinson and Boston's Orlando Cepeda were tops. Each delivered hits that helped win 15 games.

Demand for farm equipment rising

Farm equipment remains a growing need for farmers all over the country, and many farmers from the Midwestern area migrate to Hale Auction Co. on Highway 62 East which conducts frequent sales of used equipment. Auctioneer Dave Hale (right photo) rambles out a rapid chant about equipment varying from plows to heavy tractors to almost any other kind of farm equipment. Farmers from all over the central United States (top photo) listen and register their bids with a raised hand or sometimes an answering chant of their own.

Missouri alloted 2% more gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office ordered oil companies Tuesday to send additional gasoline from their own stocks to 20 states suffering shortages in February.

The move was aimed at easing the long waiting lines at gasoline stations, but there was no way to guess how much relief it would bring.

The additional gasoline was earmarked to be added to the state set-asides for "hardship cases", to be distributed at the direction of state governors to alleviate particularly severe local gasoline shortages.

Last Feb. 9, the FEO requested that oil companies transfer up to two per cent of the gasoline allocation from ten states, and increase by as much as two per cent the allocation of 12 other states and the District of Columbia.

The FEO said Tuesday that policy still stands; but four states due for increases under both the Feb. 9 policy and Tuesday's order would get only the amount of Tuesday's order.

Here is a summary of the FEO gasoline allocation increases:

—Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon, Vermont and West Virginia: These eight states had their total February gasoline allocation increased five per cent by Tuesday's order. Three per cent of their original allocation was already set aside to aid hardship cases; the new five per cent increase is added to that hardship set-aside for use at the governors' discretion.

—New Jersey and Virginia: Last Feb. 9, these two states were designated to receive up to two per cent more gasoline in February, if the oil companies could conveniently provide it; Tuesday's order included that two per cent in a total five per cent increase and required the oil companies to provide it all. The five per cent increase was to be added to the existing state hardship setaside of three per cent of the original supply, for use at the governors' discretion.

—Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Massachusetts, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island: The FEO order Tuesday required oil companies to send these eight states an additional two per cent on top of their original February gasoline allocations, to be added to their previous three per cent state hardship set-asides, to be distributed at the discretion of their governors.

—Illinois and Maryland: Designated last Feb. 9 to receive up to two per cent more gasoline if oil companies could conveniently provide it.

Board OKs open campus policy at Sikeston High

The Sikeston R-6 School District board of education Tuesday approved an open campus policy for students at Sikeston High School. The open campus policy means students will be allowed to leave the campus during the lunch hour.

The policy is expected to begin March 12 and continue on a trial basis for the remainder of the school year.

The board's action came after it received a recommendation from the school's student council that the policy be adopted. The council made the recommendation after the board indicated it would respond favorably to such a recommendation. Students at the high school have been seeking an open campus for years.

Terry Teachout, a representative of the student council, told the board many students now violate the closed campus rules. He said the school would have better control over students if they could leave the campus legally and if such privilages were regulated.

The student council's recommendation suggested that students be required to have a release from their parents before being allowed to leave campus, that there be no littering of campus grounds and that students returning late from off the campus should be disciplined by their teachers.

Teachout said he thought the open campus proposal was a realistic solution to the problems of students leaving campus.

Board members expressed some reservations about the workability of the restrictions and wanted it made clear they were not approving the open campus policy simply because students were violating the closed campus rules.

Board members said they are mainly concerned about the safety of the students during the lunch hour. The schools have legal responsibility for the students during school hours. Supt. Sam Harbin said he doesn't think a parental release will negate the school's responsibility.

The installation of lighted traffic signals at the intersection of East Malone Avenue and Pine Street appeared to remove the last major objection to an open campus.

Harbin said food service in the cafeteria would probably fluctuate for the first few weeks of open campus. He said the history of an open campus indicates that students will leave the campus in large numbers the first few weeks, then begin remaining on campus in larger numbers.

In other action, the board voted to place the school district tax levy on the April 2 election ballot. The board will ask voters to keep the levy at its present level of $4.19 per $100 assessed evaluation. The issue must come before voters every four years.

The board voted to raise mileage rates for school personnel who drive their own cars for school business from 10 cents per mile to 12 cents per mile.

The board also accepted the resignation of William House, a science teacher at the junior high school.

Mrs. Holland bound over in husband murder case

Mrs. Vivian Maxine Holland, 40, of 1409 Henry St. was bound over to appear in Circuit Court Feb. 28 on a first degree murder charge in connection with the Jan. 27 shotgun slaying of her husband, George Holland, following a Tuesday afternoon preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Lloyd Briggs in the Sikeston city courtroom.

Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee and Sikeston police detective Dan Hinton testified as witnesses for the state.

Nunnelee said he arrived at the scene shortly after the slaying occurred at approximately 3 a.m. and Mrs. Holland told him she and Holland had been arguing.

The corner then said Mrs. Holland told him she picked up a shotgun pointed it at her husband's back and pulled the trigger. When it failed to go off, she said she noticed the shotgun had come apart, so she fixed it back together and pulled the trigger a second time. This time she said it discharged and the blast struck Holland.

Nunnelee said he found Holland slumped over the table in a pool of blood with a shotgun wound in the back.

Hinton said Mrs. Holland told him she did not know how the argument started. She said she and Holland had been fighting and that Holland was making harassing telephone calls.

Hinton stated that Mrs. Holland said she picked up the shotgun and tried unsuccessfully to get Holland's attention. She told Hinton she then pulled the trigger and the gun came apart. She said she fixed it back together and, when he continued to pay no attention to her, she pulled the trigger again and the gun discharged.

Hinton said she told him she tried to help Holland up after he slumped over the table but was unable to do so.

She also told Hinton she took the phone out of her husband's hand and told Mrs. Hazel Woodard (to whom Holland had been talking) that she had just shot him and asked her to send her husband (police Capt. Lawrence Woodward) to the Holland home.

Under cross-examination, Hinton said Mrs. Holland told him she did not mean to kill her husband; that she only wanted to hurt him and get his attention. Hinton also said she stated she did not know the gun was loaded.

Hinton said he took two statements from Mrs. Holland because he wanted to make sure she wasn't trying to protect someone and to determine if someone else had shot Holland.

Witnesses called by the defense were Capt and Mrs. Woodward and police Sgt. Jack Patterson and Richard Couch.

Woodward testified that the first time he saw Holland on the night he was killed was on a ditch bank at the west end of Murray Lane where one of Holland's sons had driven a car into the ditch. He said he had received a call that a man had been seen chasing a boy across a yard.

When he arrived at the scene, Woodward said he saw Holland and could tell that he had been drinking.

"I told him I came out to help and he told me it was none of my business and to leave," Woodward remarked.

The next time Woodward saw Holland was at the police station. "I didn't want to talk to him because I knew he had been drinking and I didn't want any trouble with him," he said.

"After I thought he had left, I walked out in the hall, and he and Mrs. Holland

Driver hurt in collision

A two-car accident at the intersection of New Madrid and Trotter streets resulted in minor injuries to one of the drivers at 12:55 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Imogene Anderson, 66, of 115 Dorothy St. was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

She was injured when the car she was driving was struck on the driver's side by a car driven by Vernon Ramsey, 70, of 103 N. West St.

Police said Mrs. Anderson was southbound on South New Madrid Street, when Ramsey westbound on Trotter Street, failed to yield the right of way and struck her car.

Police said Ramsey received a ticket for careless and imprudent driving.

Stereo tapes stolen from car

Stereo tapes valued at $70 were reported stolen Tuesday by Richard Lucy, 928 Crescent Drive.

Lucy said the tapes were stolen between 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. from his car, while it was parked at the corner of Lake and Taylor streets.

The tapes contained religious music.

Police said today that a minibike was stolen Saturday from the front porch of the Darrell Townsend home, 1712 Kentucky, on Saturday. The value was not reported.

2 policemen hurt during car chase

EAST PRAIRIE — Two city policemen were injured about 11:15 p.m. Tuesday when their police car crashed during a high speed chase through East Prairie.

Officers Charles Ferguson and Daniel Byrd reportedly were taking Gerald Morgan, who was ill, to his home on Route Two when a car pulled from an alley onto Washington Drive at a high rate of speed. The car continued down Washington Drive, running stop signs, along the way and turned north on Miller Road.

The officers pursued the car about two miles before Ferguson lost control of the police car which struck a tree. The car, a 1973 model, was demolished.

All three men in the police car were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. Byrd was treated and released. Ferguson, who reportedly received broken ribs and a cut on his leg, and Morgan who received cuts were admitted to the hospital

NEW MADRID– An attempted break- in at R. C. Smith Jewelry Store on Main Street was prevented early today when police were notified at 2 a.m. that three youths were trying to kick in a back door at the store.

Two 16- year- olds were arrested at the scene by officer Jim Morgan and the third, who escaped, is being sought.

The juveniles have been released to New Madrid County Juvenile Officer J. J. Bloomfield Jr.

Allen jailed for bean sale

CHARLESTON — Cecil Allen of rural Charleston is being held in the Mississippi County jail on a felony charge of stealing more than $50.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie said Allen is accused of selling between 50 and 60 bushels of soybeans — owned by Henry Crenshaw and stored on the Crenshaw farm northwest of Charleston — to Lonnie Wallace of Charleston on Tuesday.

Allen formerly worked for Crenshaw and was living on the Crenshaw farm.

Ivie said Wallace gave Allen a $225 check for the beans and went to the farm and loaded them on his truck. Reportedly, someone saw the truck being loaded and informed Crenshaw, who notified the sheriff's department.

Allen was arrested about 6 p.m. Tuesday in Charleston by Deputy Sheriff Mike Baughman.

The check and beans have been recovered.

LITTLE LEAUGE FEVER

"Little League" baseball is, to thousands of youths and hundreds of enthusiastic adults, a big part of life in America. In cities and towns in every State, civic, social and fraternal organizations serve as sponsors of Little League teams to encourage good sportsmanship, physical fitness and all of the leadership qualities developed through competitive activity.

But where the Little League fever has really taken hold is in Free China. Youths from the Republic of China have won three world championships in the last four years. Thousands of avid fans turn out to watch the Little League players in action. Competition for places on the teams is fierce. As a result, the Chinese National Little League branches in the Republic of China will be increased from the present 22 to 41. Taipei city, which now has one branch, will be increased to five. Tainan city, which sponsored the 1973 world Little League champions, the Tainan Giants, will increase from three to seven branches, as will Taichung city and Kaohsiung city. Other cities and counties will similarly be doubled and tripled in numbers of branches.

Watching the world champions in action last year, some admiring American observers could scarcely believe their eyes. It was noted that the Chinese boys "played like professionals," and some went so far as to wonder if the age of the Chinese boys had been falsified. However, Peter McGovern, chairman of the Little League, headquartered at Williamsport, Pennsylvania, said that a thorough investigation had shown that there was no violation of the rules.

It seems to us that the winning characterisistics found in the Little League players from the Republic of China are a natural attribute in a country where pride in accomplishment, patriotism, self- esteem and deep appreciation in the value of freedom is encouraged in all aspects of life. We'll be looking forward with interest to the forthcoming 1974 competition, and although we will naturally be cheering the Americans, we'll be rooting for the winners, from whatever part of the free world they may come.

TAKE TWO, THEY'RE SMALL

The trend toward smaller cars has not yet reached the underworld.

According to one man versed on the subject, Sgt. Michael A. Janero, head of the auto theft unit of the Cleveland Police Department, 1973 full- size and luxury cars are still the most popular models with car thieves.

However, medium and compact cars are expected to attract more illicit attention as they become more numerous, and especially if there is gas rationing.

In other words, like any other "enterprisers" serving a market, car thieves aim to please their customers.

If people would buy parts and cars only from legitimate dealers, says Janero, there would be no market for car theft rings. But as long as people are willing to buy cheap parts or "special deal" cars from dubious sources, car theft will continue to be a problem, no matter how much money or effort is spent on anti theft devices or law enforcement.

THE FORGOTTEN PEOPLE

While the government is allowing the rich oil companies to drastically raise their prices and profits, hundreds of thousands of gasoline service station owners and operators wish that it would also remember them, the forgotten people in the oil economic scale.

Until this week, their margin of profit per gallon had not been changed by the companies.

The result was that most station operators were feeling the financial pinch, and suffering economically.

They are entitled to a higher profit margin per gallon, and must have it if they are to continue in business and if we are to continue to have them to service us.

The same applies to the distributors of LP gas, at least one of whom says his costs have been drastically raised, while his profit margin per unit has remained the same, also resulting in less volume and much less profit.

When buying a used car, do you know what the guy is actually saying?

Here's the lingo of a fictitious used car dealer, "Crazy Sam's Used Car Emporium" as translated by an outsider.

NEVER BEEN RACED — Former owner too embarrassed.

LOW MILEAGE CAR — We turned the speedometer way back.

DRIVEN ONLY 11,000 MILES — Towed the rest of the way.

REBUILT ENGINE — We cleaned the spark plugs.

ONE OWNER CAR — Man by the name of Hertz.

CREAM PUFF — Was in a head-on collision with a milk truck.

UNDERCOATED — With rust.

SECOND CAR — There were only two cars in the race.

DOESN'T BURN OIL — It drips out before it has a chance to burn.

RECONDITIONED — With the cheapest seat covers we could find.

AS IS — Bring your own shovel.

10 GALLONS A WEEK

Energy Chief William E. Simon is asking everyone to limit his auto gasoline consumption to 10 gallons a week.

As he points out, this is a try at voluntary rationing. If it works, the real thing may be avoided.

It still is not clear what Simon means by 10 gallons per week. Presumably it means 10 gallons per week per car, just as his request to filling stations that they limit sales applies to each car at the pumps.

Ten gallons per week should be enough to take care of the ordinary needs of most drivers in this area. Certainly it should take care of all the essential driving necessary for those whose car is not necessary in their work and who live only a few miles from their jobs or have other means of getting to them. It may require a little planning, having the worker stop at the grocery store on his way home in the evening instead of requiring the wife to make a special trip. And other errands can be planned, too, so that one trip does the work of several.

Two sisters were discussing their grandmother. "Why do you think grandma reads the Bible so much," asked one.

SPEED CALLED CAUSED OF ROLLOVER ACCIDENTS

The National Safety Council says that 90,400 cars roll over each year.

However, if the first event is "collision between motor vehicles" and one of the vehicles subsequently rolls over, only the first event is recorded and the rollover is not documented. Therefore, it is believed that the number of rollovers is much higher than the 0.6% of all accidents reported in the mass accident data. Perhaps on the order of 19 per cent of all accidents involve rollovers according to the Highway Research Institute of the University of Michigan.

An earlier automobile crash injury study found rollovers in 25 per cent of rural injury producing accidents.

Few rollovers occur under 40 miles per - hour, but with higher speeds the frequency of cars overturning increases significantly, the study said. The young driver, 21 and under, is said to be almost twice as involved in rollovers as those over 21.

BASIS OF SEA POWER

Merchant ships are a primary element of sea power -- a fact that the USSR and other nations have recognized, juding by their massive merchant ship construction programs.

In the United States, the importance of merchant ships has been stressed in a memorandum from the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral E. R. Zumwalt, Jr. to Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird. Admiral Zumwalt said, "The Navy has a greater requirement for merchant ships than is generally recognized. For example, merchant ships are absolutely required to provide the bulk of the DOD (Department of Defense) sealift and to augment our amphibious forces. Also ... testing was recently completed and it proved the feasibility of using commercial tankers to consolidate Navy replenishment ships and to provide limited replenishment of combatant ships. The knowledge that this surge capability is available can expand the employment options of our fleet ... I intend to express my belief in the need for a strong, viable U. S. - flag Merchant Marine at every available opportunity ..."

Much has been done to awaken the American public to our dependence on a strong merchant marine -- both militarily and economically. A major shipbuilding program has been undertaken in this country that will extend over a period of 10 years. New technology cargo carriers and tankers will be joining the fleet in the years ahead. They will help provide the sinews that will command the respect of communist nations with whom the United States is now endeavoring to open trade relations. The remarks of Admiral Zumwalt merely add emphasis to the urgency of moving ahead with U. S. merchant ship construction.

ALASKAN OIL PIPELINE SAID TO MAKE SENSE

Final approval for the right-of- way to the Alaska pipeline would be an important step in overcoming the energy shortage, according to Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute. He has predicted that, when the line is fully operational, "It will supply U. S. refineries with two million barrels of crude oil every day."

Stating that there are proved reserves of about 10 billion barrels of oil under the North Slope of Alaska, Mr. Ikard said, "It would make very little sense to leave them there and to spend more dollars for oil from foreign sources."

He said the builders have a responsibility to utilize every engineering technique to assure that there will be no significant damage to the ecology of Alaska.

MODERN TECHNIQUE USED TO RESTORE OLD DOCUMENTS

Rare, ancient and valuable documents, with soil accumulated over the years, are being gently cleaned without harming precious script or puncturing parchment.

The S. S. White Industrial Products Division of Pennwalt Corp., Piscataway, N. J., demonstrated that, with the proper choice of powder and nozzle, the use of abrasive cutting equipment on a bible fragment in Yeminite script for the Jewish National and University Library in Jersalem, could be successful.

Nick LaCourte, who supervised this unusual experiment, said, "On instructins from the library, we directed our attention to the clear spaces between the handwritten lines, carefully staying away from the letters themselves. However, we believe that if anyone wanted to take the time, and only a minimal training would be necessary, he could ultimately develop enough confidence to attempt a complete cleaning.

The abrasive jet machine has a multitude of applications in industry, especially in electronics, where it is a standard method of adjusting printed resistors on miniaturized circuits.

KIDNAP, TERRORISTS

The kidnapping of Patricia Hearst in San Francisco is another horrifying story emerging from the crime scene of the U.S., in fact the world. This abduction is a headline story, but there are many others receiving less media attention which are equally appalling. In the case of Miss Hearst, the criminals declare themselves to have radical political motives. Whatever the motives, they are still vicious felons who defy an orderly society.

Police and FBI agents working on the Hearst case have asked for public cooperation in their efforts to get the daughter of the distinguished publisher, Randolph A. Hearst, home safely. The appeal should be a standing effort in all criminal cases. Citizens can do much to aid officers of the law and the courts.

Witnesses to crimes should come forward with information and when the cases are broken they should stand fast in their testimony from the witness stand. It will take a united effort to whip the problem of crime. This column has long advocated the reinstitution of capital punishment. Many states are restoring the death penalty.

This column has also supported an unofficial program called Law- Aid. Its objective is to support law enforcement officers in their very tough job of protecting the nation internally. Law- Aid chapters should be formed in each community and work begun on a plan to help police and sheriff's officers.

NEW YORK (AP) — When work begins to overwhelm you, be grateful you don't have to perform some of the really disagreeable jobs in the world.

Like being the guy who decides what part to leave out of the do-it-yourself kits.

Just imagine having to spend your workday at a bicycle factory deciding exactly which bolt or nut to leave out of each box. Or figuring out what essential part to not put into each dishwasher or air-conditioner or garage door opener for home installation.

(Boxes packed for professional installation or assembly must never be missing any parts, of course. Presumably some coding scheme regulates which box gets to the professional and which is relegated to the father who won't put it together until later.

(Companies contend, naturally enough, that most packages are properly packed. Parts are missing, supposedly, from maybe 1 per cent of the total. It is an interesting accident of statistics how 99 per cent of the buyers get that one per cent).

The responsibility and decision making involved in such a job is staggering.

Just how do you decide what to leave out?

Maybe it's random chance. You just close your eyes and grab a part. That probably would work well enough, but it's hard to imagine any modern corporate management entrusting such a vital task to mere chance.

More likely there is a formal schedule, conceived by an accountant and executed by a computer. It would decree to leave out the front wheel bolt on the first package, the chain on the second one, the handlebar nut on the third, and so forth.

There must be sadistic delight in pondering the harassed father with the assembled vehicle wondering where those extra pieces go.

If that's a sort of mad pleasure for the guy in the bike factory, think what sort of thrill you could get with something like a dishwasher. There it sits, finally installed and working after 3 days, 47 curses, 2 head bumps, 13 scraped fingers and 1 near divorce.

And still you have five screws just like those you put in and which look essential.

You then have two choices: (a) take it all out and start over again, reading the directions even more carefully to make certain you didn't miss anything; (b) throw the screws into the far corner under the counter where they'll never be found, open a beer and accept your wife's congratulations.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON & LES WHITTEN SAYS:

Uncover $1 Million In Unreported '72 GOP Funds

WASHINGTON-- Secret documents from the 1972 Nixon presidential campaign, including a mysterious list of donors code- named "Alpha Four," show new discrepancies and unreported contributions of at least $1 million.

There are indications the total may eventually reach millions more. This is all in addition to the $60.2 million in contributions finally admitted by Nixon fund-raisers last September under heavy pressure from Common Cause.

Buried in that whopping kitty was a $10,000 gift collected from a pair of Miami businessmen by the President's crony, banker Bebe Rebozo. The partners in Atlantic Investors of Miami, Jay I. Kislak and Alec Courtelis, gave the money to Rebozo hoping he would tell the President about it.

"If you're going to make a contribution," Kislak told us candidly, "you want to get as close to the guy as you can get, don't you?"

As far as we can determine, Rebozo turned the money over to the campaign without belaboring President Nixon about it.

In previous cases, as we have reported, Rebozo collected $100,000 from Howard Hughes and $10,000 from the Davis brothers, who founded the Winn- Dixie supermarket chain.

The new $1 million discrepancy was turned up by investigators for Common Cause. The citizens' lobby got some of its information, we have discovered, by threatening to serve a subpoena on Rose Mary Woods, the President's secretary.

Under this pressure, the White House turned over her list of secret contributors to Common Cause. The citizens' group also has winnowed data from sealed depositions of Rebozo, Nixon lawyer Herb Kalmbach and others.

Finally, they have obtained an alphabetized four- column list titled "Alpha Four," containing contributors' names and financial work papers of the Nixon re- election committee.

Besides this curiously unaccounted for $1 million the Common Cause sleuths believe many millions more in donations remain unreported, but they lack documents to back it up.

There is evidence, for instance, that huge sums were pledged to the Nixon campaign and secretly paid into state committees to avoid federal accounting. One committee was set up under the Republican National Committee's umbrella, but money was funneled out of it for White House uses, the sleuths found.

Large amounts were also "contributed in kind" in the form of airline tickets, rent- a-cars, credit card charges and the like.

FOOTNOTE: Common Cause lawyers Mitch Rogovin and Ken Guido, who pried loose most of the new data, refused comment except to say new court action is planned soon. Lawyers for the Nixon fund- raisers did not return our calls.

ROLLING OVER THE HANDICAPPED: An American company, which has cornered a dominant share of the world market in wheelchairs, has been accused of rolling up $16 million a year in sales at the expense of this country's handicapped.

In a still confidential draft report, the Center for Concerned Engineering charges that Everest and Jennings International is selling virtually the same wheelchairs in America for $495 that it markets in Great Britain for $135. The group rated the British chair as being better, since it is equipped with pneumatic front tires.

In West German, E&J is faced with small innovative competitors. The center's engineers said E&J markets many types of advanced machines in Germany to meet this challenge and includes such options as luggage racks, which are not available here.

Ralf Hotchkiss, director of the engineering center, said he made an international tour checking the availability of wheelchairs and found that the handicapped in other countries fare better than Americans, both in price and in design.

During his investigative trip to England, Hotchkiss said he visited the largest E&J distributor and placed an order for 10 wheelchairs.

"We went through all the paperwork and then the salesman asked where I wanted the wheelchairs shipped," Hotchkiss said. "I gave him my American address and he told me he was not allowed to ship the cheaper chairs to the United States."

He said E&J enforced a similar policy in Germany, where the broad range of models is particularly attractive to handicapped Americans.

The biggest unfulfilled need in wheelchairs, the center's draft concluded, is to make them narrow enough to carry their passengers through bathroom doors.

Citing a recent study which shows that most U. S. wheelchairs are more than two feet wide, the center noted, "The average bathroom door in both private homes and public facilities is less than 24 1/2 inches"-- too narrow for wheelchairs.

The center contended, however, that there is considerable data showing that "60 per cent of adults can fit comfortably into chairs 20 inches wide or less."

Our investigation shows that the top three E&J officers, all members of the Jennings family, collected more than $500,000 a year in salaries, dividends and other benefits-- not including a generous retirement plan.

E & J's American competitors, the engineering center said, are content to sell virtually the same models as E&J, at virtually the same prices.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for E&J firmly defended his company, saying wheelchairs are fairly priced from $105 to about $1,000 for special, powered models. The company has constantly improved its American product, he said, and profits were not high.

O'NEAL'S SIDE: In December, we told how former Rep. Maston O'Neal, D- Ga., contacted his old House colleague, Small Business Administrator Thomas Kleppe, about a contract for O'Neal's son- in- law. O'Neal declined to return our call at the time. Now, he has assured us he did not contact Kleppe on the contract, but on a different business matter concerning his son- in- law. O'Neal denies he tried to influence Kleppe or that he has any financial stake in his son- in- law's firm.

2 waive preliminary hearing; to be tried on felony charge

NEW MADRID — Kenny Marshall and Roy Marshall were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a felony charge of breaking nand entering with intent to commit a felony after waiving a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

They are accused of breaking into the dwelling of Marie Turnbo in Marston on Feb. 8 with intent to commit a felony. Bond of $500 was set for each.

Porter Sanders, charged with driving while intoxicated, failure to transfer license and driving while license is under revocation was assessed $180 fine, given six months in jail and placed on probation for one year.

Robert Joe Kirk drew a $125 fine on a charge of driving while intoxicated. His driver's license was suspended for one year and he was given a six- month suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year

Pin Daugherty and Dennis Sharp were fined $51 each on a charge of malicious destruction of property in Gideon by breaking windows and taking wires and keys from a tractor owned by M and S Auction Co. on Feb. 10.

William A. Jeffords was levied a $35 fine on a charge of common assault upon Margaret Jeffords by striking her about the face with his fists on Feb. 17.

W. C. James was fined $90 on charges of careless and imprudent driving and driving while license is under revocation.

Other cases and fines:

Louise Simmons, driving without a license,$20; Jimmy Dale Hunt, driving without a licnese, $30; and Syvilla Etta Hardin, careless and imprudent driving by failure to yield right of way $40.

A suit for damages filed by Margaret E. Williams against L. A. Tucker Truck Lines was ordered transferred to New Madrid County Circuit Court upon agreement of stipulation for transfer.

Dean Murphy, left, governor of the Missouri-Arkansas District of Kiwanis International, was guest speaker at the Dean Murphy dinner, hosted Tuesday night at Ramada Inn by the Sikeston Kiwanis Club for Division 15 clubs. Don Pratt, right, is club president. Also present at the dinner was Dr. William Simpson, governor of the Kentucky- Tennessee district, and three former governors of the Missouri-Arkansas District — George Kirk of Sikeston, Dale Bracey of Caruthersville and Linus Bartels of Cape Girardeau. Court says hospital facilities must be available for abortion

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Public hospital facilities must be made available for abortion services, the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled in a case involving the Virginia, Minn., city hospital.

"Where the state fails to take cognizance of the separate trimesters of pregnancy in its regulation of abortion procedures, the regulation is overbroad and invalid," the appeals court said Tuesday in affirming a lower court ruling.

The class-action suit challenged the constitutionality of a hospital resolution, which prohibited the use of hospital facilities for performing any abortions unless the pregnancy threatened the life of the mother.

The appeals court said the issue involved a question of whether public hospitals could deny facilities to doctors and patients through policy statements that are held to be unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The high court ruled last year that a physician and patient should be free during the first three months of pegnancy to determine whether an abortion would be performed without interference from the state.

County collects $41,052 in taxes

BENTON — Scott County Collector, Tom Marshall reports $41,052.21 personal, real estate and merchants tax collected in the month of January.

Distribution of taxes collected are:

State, $244.62; county, $3,701.77; county sepcial road, $2,233.95; health, $815.44; library, $464; Johnson grass, $163.14 and county drainage, $585.47.

School districts:

Illmo-Scott City, R-1, $3,319.05; Chaffee, R-2, $1,896.42; Oran, R-3, $4,654.17; Benton, R-4, $3,551.31; Scott Central, R-5, $3,747.02; Sikeston, R-6, $15,432.97; and Kelso, No. 7, $242.88.

According to Marshall, all taxes collected are delinquent and will bear a two per cent penalty and two per cent interest if paid in February.

Marshal will be appointed

ADVANCE — Voters in a narrow margin of 65 to 64 decided in a special election Tuesday the office of town marshal will be an appointive position.

The office previously was an elective position.

6 arrests announced

Police today announced six arrests. They include Theodore Eugene Jennings, of St. Charles for petit larceny; Vernon Harbenson Ramsey, 103 N. West, careless and imprudent driving; Robert Lee Porter, Dunn Hotel, public intoxication.

Calvin Leroy Adams, 104 Applegate, petit larceny; William Surface, 139 Fourth St., assault and battery; Byron Klingel, 104 Applegate, petit larceny.

Burglars unsuccessful

DEXTER — Burglars were unsuccessful in an attempt to open a cash register at Monaco Egg Co. Tuesday night, according to city police, who reported nothing was stolen.

Thieves broke a window glass at the rear of the building to enter the building.

A previous break- in Jan. 23 netted burglars $40.

The ancient Greeks believed that the nauticles, a shell-fish resembling the snail, used its shell as a boat and its arms as a sail.

Baby should not sleep in parent's bedroom

IV. The First Weeks
At Home: Part 1

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This series of 18 articles, prepared by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will inform about and describe some of the things about normal babies that commonly worry parents -- telling what to do or not to do about them. They should answer many of the questions about what to expect of a new baby and give simple instructins about solving problems that most parents face during their baby's first year of life. Articles four, five and six are written to answer some of the questions about problems with a new baby during the first weeks he is at home.)

Sleeping

Everybody will get more rest if the baby does not sleep in the parents' room. Especially in the first weeks, his frequent snorts, gurgles, sneezes, coughs and irregular breathing are bound to keep you awake wondering what he'll do next. If he really needs you, he'll cry loud enough to be heard from nearly everywhere in the house.

Even in the smallest apartment, a cribe or makeshift crib can be moved to the living room, kitchen or bathroom when the parents retire for the night.

Don't put him in bed with you, either. There is always a danger of smothering him or hurting him by rolling over on him in your sleep, and it is almost certain he will want to become your constant bedfellow. Neither you nor your husband will want to put up with a wiggling, wet baby for very long.

He shouldn't sleep in a strong draft or breeze. He does not need open windows where he sleeps. Air that is fresh enough for him to breath during the day is fresh enough for him to sleep in.

He will decide for himself how long he wants to sleep -- anything from 12 to 20 hours during the 24- hour day. You won't be able to make him sleep any more or less, but certainly you can arrange to keep him awake during the times of the day that are most convenient for you, so that he will sleep during the nights and during mornings or afternoon naps.

Bowel Movements

The baby's first bowel movements are a sticky green- black material. After a week or two, they become lighter and less sticky, the way they will be for the next year. The baby may have anywhere from one movement every three or four days to five or six movements a day.

Movements may be as firm as those of a normal adult or as soft as watery scrambled eggs. They baby may turn red in the face and cry with each bowel movement, or he may seem totally unaware of them. The color of the bowel movements may be yellow, green or brown. All of these are normal.

Constipation exists when the bowel movements are hard, dry and difficult to pass, no matter how frequent or infrequent they may be. Prune juice (one tablespoon), brown sugar (one tablespoon) or molasses (one tablespoon), added to one of his bottles may correct this. If not, your doctor or clinic may suggest a remedy.

Do not use mineral oil, castor oil, adult laxatives or enemas without the advice of your doctor.

Diarrhea exists when the bowel movements contain too much water. Small bowel movements which are milky or wattery or odd- colored are rarely of concern, and no treatment or diet change is usually necessary. Large, water bowel movements can cause an infant to lose more water in his bowel movement than he is drinking.

The "dehydration" which results can be a true medical emergency. Even a single huge, explosive, water bowel movement can be an emergency in an infant one to three months old, especially if there is poor appetite or vomiting.

Do not delay in seeking medical attention when there are one or more large watery bowel movements.

Blood in Bowel Movements — Slight blood streaking on the outside of a bowel movement is usually caused by a small sore or fissure in the anus, and is not a cause for alarm. The fissure and the bleeding can often be cured by keeping the stools soft with one of the remedies discussed for constipation.

If bleeding or hard bowel movements persist, your doctor will be able to help. Do not delay medical attention if there is bloddy diarrhea or passage of fresh blood or blood clots with the bowel movements.

Fashion world free to groups

A new documentary film, featuring a behind- the-scenes look at the world of fashion, is now available without charge for showings by women's clubs, schools and community groups.

Entitled "Frankly Fashion," the 15- minute color film is a candid and entertaining look at some of the people who predict and select the styles of the future-- and then gamble millions of dollars on the hope that women will want to wear them.

Featured in the documentary is a woman who forecasts style trends a year ahead of the time they'll be "in" fashion; a man who buys more dresses in one hour than most women could wear in a lifetime; a textile engineer who destroys brand-new fashion apparel to determine how long they'll last; and a pattern designer who, in a nation of more than 100 million women, must ensure that any style in his line fits any woman who wants it.

Free- loan 16- millimeter prints of the film can be obtained by writing "Frankly Fashion," c/o Public Information Department, JC Penney Company, 1301 Avenue of the Americas, New York City, N. Y. 10019.

Applications now taken for Sew with Cotton program

Area girls from 10 to 18 years old may enroll in the annual Sew With Cotton program between now and March 1 by obtaining enrollment blanks from their home economics instructors, 4- H leaders, county chairmen and University of Missouri Extension Centers.

The program is designed to encourage and provide a meaningful experience for personal growth and development of the girl; to increase her competence in consumer education and construction skills; and to give a better understanding of the social and psychological effect of clothing on the individual girl.

Sponsors for this program are Kennett Oil Mill, Sikeston Cotton Oil Mill, Inc. and Mississippi Valley Oil Seed Processors Association of Memphis, Tenn., in cooperation with the administration of the local high schools, home economics instructors and the University of Missouri Extension Service.

Girls must make their garment of 100 percent cotton and enter in the class most appropriate for their age and ability.

The classes include:

Girls class: 10 to 12 years old— skirt and blouse, jumper and blouse or simple dress.

Junior Miss (with sewing experience): 13 to 15-- better dress without coat or jacket.

Open class (with or without sewing experience): 13 to 15-- suit, dress ensemble or pantsuit ensemble.

Sportswear class: 13 and up-- beach wear, shorts and top, slacks and top, pant dress, jumpsuit or pantsuit.

Misses class: 16 and up-- pantsuit ensemble, suit with blouse and jacket, better dress (with or without coat) or formal.

Each enrollee must be a home economics or Future Homemakers of America student, a 4- H member, or must have a supervisor with knowledge of sewing.

The county judging events will be held prior to or on April 20 at which time three winners will be picked from each class to represent the county at the district program in Doniphan on April 27.

Counties participating in the program, with their county chairmen, are: Butler, A. B. Hale of Poplar Bluff; Dunklin, Mrs. Walter Moore of Kennett; Mississippi, Mrs. Betty Sorrells of East Prairie; New Madrid, Mrs. Hugh Rogers of Matthews; Pemiscot, Mrs. Connie Anderson of Deering; Ripley, Mrs. Jean Cox of Doniphan; Scott, Mrs. Francis Harris of Benton; and Stoddard, Miss Mary Seibert of Bernie.

LUNCHBOX SPECIAL
Tuna Sandwiches
Carrot Sticks
Molasses Cookies Red Apple

MOLASSES COOKIES

Grated raw yam is the surprise ingredient.

2 cups unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
½ cup margarine
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup molasses
1 cup finely grated pared raw yam, not packed down
¼ cup buttermilk

Thoroughly stir together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and ginger. Cream margarine and sugar; beat in egg. Add molasses and yam. Stir in flour mixture alternately with buttermilk until batter is smooth (except for shreds of yam). Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, a few inches apart, onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until browned — about 8 minutes. Remove to wire racks to cool. Makes almost 3½ dozen. This is a soft cookie with strong molasses flavor.

Ann Landers

Disgusted reader says female conversations top those of men

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to the woman who hated going to couples parties because the men go off to one side of the room and the women huddle together on the other side, was lousy.

According to you, most women are dummies who can't talk about anything but recipes, laundry bleaches and their kids. Such trivia bores the men (you said), so they drift away from the girls to discuss more substantive topics, such as world affairs, politics, and the economic state of the universe.

Last night my husband and I attended a party and the crowd was, as you described, divided according to sex. The women were discussing national politics and the oil crisis. It was a spirited exchange because there were several well- informed gals there who held opposite points of view.

I meandered to the other side of the room to listen to what the men were into. There were three conversations going. One guy was telling a dirty joke, another fellow was talking about guns. The third bore was running down his boss. I stood it for about ten minutes, then went back to the women. It was a welcome relief. This letter will, of course, wind up in the wastebasket because it upsets your oft- repeated theory that men are smart and women are stupid.-- Distaff Dora

Dear D.D.: Please don't put words in my mouth. Stupidity knows no gender. There are brilliant women and stupid men everywhere you look-- and I know plenty of both. I happen to prefer coeducational conversational evenings, but eight times out of tien, if the group is divided according to sex, I'd rather be with the men. Generally speaking, their topics are more substantive.

Dear Ann Landers: Am I addle- brained, immature, or just normal? As a teenager I would fall madly in love and tell myself, "This is IT." Six months later, I'd be sick of the sight of my Romeo and break it off.

At age 24 I married "the man of my dreams." Within a year, he irritated me beyond endurance. What used to be out- of- this- world sex turned into an ordeal. I tried my darnedest to make the marriage work for the sake of our two small children, but after six years I told him I couldn't stand the phoniness of our relationship and we were divorced.

Immediately I fell madly in love with an unstable but handsome charmer. We were married the first legal moment. Now, two years later, I see all his faults which should have been apparent before. We are in the process of being divorced.

I need to know if this is the way most marriages are. Do people get sick of each other and stay together for appearance's sake, or for convenience? I have always held a full- time job and the people I work with praise my patience and personality. They think I'm great. What do you think, Ann?-- Looking Inward In The Bay Area

Dear Looking: I think a woman who is a two- time loser at the age of 32 had better do a lot more "looking inward" before she considers another marriage.

You need some self- exploration with a professional to learn why you become bored with men after you capture them. This pattern which has persisted since you were a teenager indicates that emotionally you are STILL back in high school.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking-- its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading, "Booze and You-- For Teen- Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35c in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Crime compensation bill moves toward passage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House gave first round approval Tuesday to a measure that would grant state compensation to persons who are the victims of crimes. The bill, approved 10840, would cover injuries or deaths resulting from crimes and would cost the state about $754,000 for fiscal 1974-75.

The sponsor, Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, said it is the state's duty to protect citizens from crimes. He said the bill's purpose is to help families whose parents are killed or badly injured. It would also aid workers disabled as a result of crime.

An opponent of the bill, Rep. Max Bacon, D-Springfield, said the bill would set up a "massive insurance program," and would not aid persons suffering because of accidents.

He said the bill would make the state foot the bill for abortions arising from rape. It was changed to exclude costs of abortions, but the costs of maternal care after rapes would still be covered.

The bill creates a "Violent Crimes Compensation Board," under the state Social Services Department to be set up under the reorganization bill. The board would rule on all requests, and would make cash grants of from $100 to $10,000.

The state aid could go to any person hurt while trying to stop a "violent crime."

Such crimes would include kidnaping, rape and manslaughter. Persons who are not injured or who are the victims of robbery or burglary would not be covered.

In other action, the House gave tentative approval to a bill to boost the salary of nearly all the state's judges as well as circuit court reporters. Circuit court judges would get a raise from $28,000 to $29,500 per year. Other judges would get similar boosts. The bill would cost about $500,000 a year.

In the Senate a bill to increase workmen's compensation was debated but no action was taken.

Sen. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis, sponsor of the bill, said because there has been no increase in workmen's compensation since 1969, inflation has eaten up the amounts now paid and thus an increase is needed.

Dry milk guidelines proposed

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has proposed requirements for the use of dry milk ingredients in federally inspected poultry products.

The proposal will being poultry inspection regulationa into line with those adopted in 1967 for meat products, which require that dry milk ingredients be inspected under the voluntary inspection program for milk products administered by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) said the proposal will give consumers an added measure of protection against possible foodborne illnesses.

The proposed amendment would require sanitary handling and proper inspection of dry milk ingredients used in poultry products.

Written comments on the proposal should be filed before April 19, 1974 in duplicate with the Hearing Clerk, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250. To present oral comments, contact the inspection Standards and Regulations Staff, Technical Services, Meat and Poultry Inspection Program, APHIS, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

All written comments and transcripts of oral comments will be made available for public inspection in the office of the hearing clerk during regular working hours.

The proposal was published in the Feb. 1 Federal Register.

Former Dexter, Cape resident

Woman publisher to be honored

HOBBS, N. M. (AP)— When Agnes Kastner Head was 5 years old, she reported in the weekly Dexter, Mo., newspaper that a dead rat was found in the schoolhouse cistern. The story resulted in a cleaned- out cistern and a lid for it.

Mrs. Head now is 70 years old, and she's still reporting "irregular happenings."

'I m always reporting things that other papers won't report," said Mrs. Head, who's been publishing newspapers in New Mexico for 30 years. "I guess this is bragging, but I work a lot of investigative things. My paper's not a sad weekly. It's pretty perked up."

Mrs. Head, publisher of the weekly Hobbs Flare and former publisher of the Lovington Leader is being honored Thursday night in Hobbs at a banquet sponsored by Lea County friends.

Her long years of newspaper in New Mexico haven't always resulted in honors, however.

"I was arrested twice for criminal libel," she said. "Once was back in 1946. I was sued for $100,000. Mr. T. M. Pepperday of the Albuquerque Journal wanted to come to the rescue of a woman publisher and offered to finance my defense," she said.

She said, however, she and her husband, J. C., to whom she's been married 50 years, were able to shoulder the expenses.

A deputy sheriff "was running for sheriff. I had made the statement that gambling, bootlegging and prostitution were wide open, and no efforts were being made to stop it," she said. "And when we had the suit, I proved it."

"I had two men go out and purchase liquor from eight different bootlegging joints in a radius of two blocks " she said.

She said she was able to get the criminal libel charge in that case dismissed.

In March 1948, she launched the Hobbs Flare as a daily newspaper and, "on the third day I was arrested for criminal libel. This time, I was charged with libeling the dead."

Mrs. Head said she represented herself in this case, and got the suit dismissed.

"I had proof that the statment I made had been used in a prior campaign, and nobody had been arrested then," she said.

She was attending graduation ceremonies at Lindenwood College in Missouri for her daughter when the suit was filed, "and I was served with the papers when I came home."

Before moving to New Mexico in 1930, she worked as a reporter in Cape Girardeau, Mo., where she was going to Teachers College, now Southeast Missouri University.

"While I graduated, I didn't get a degree," she said. "They just weren't handing them out then. They handed out certificates." Her certificate was in commercial subjects.

Colleges show 19 per cent vacancy rate, says survey

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A survey of 40 public and private colleges and universities in the state shows the institutions had a 19 per cent vancancy rate in enrollment at all levels in the fall of 1972.

The study by the Missouri Commission on High Education, being circulated this week, shows the institutions had facilities to accomodate an additional 22,724 students. The total capacity was estimated at 141,848 students and the total enrollment at 119,124.

The commission said the figures were compiled through a formula used in 1970 with information supplied by the colleges.

Almost half of the vacancies, 10,737, were in the upper division grades in the undergraduate programs.

Education, letters and social sciences were the courses with the largest number of vacancies and at the doctoral level the largest number of vacancies was in the biological and physical sciences and engineering.

The 13 public colleges and universities showed 12,514 classroom vacancies out of a capacity of 96,674. For the 27 privately controlled college and universities, there were 10,210 vacancies out of 45,174 capacity.

The University of Missouri, at 3,115, could have accommodated the most extra students, the report said. MU-Columbia was listed with a capacity of 24,118 and an enrollment of 21,003. St. Louis University was listed with 2,712 vacancies and a capacity of 9,717.

Culver-Stockton, with 584 students, could have accommodated 301 more, the commission's report said.

Evangel College had 762 vacancies and an enrollment of 1,188.

Four accident patients were treated Tuesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Treated were: Debra Sitz, 19, Essex, and Diane Wagner, 20, Dexter injured in car accident; Kathy Gardner, 19, Sikeston, cut right hand while washing dishes; and Jean Anderson, 66, Sikeston, injured in car accident.

Cardinal starting pitchers figure to be Bob Gibson, Reggie Cleveland, Alan Foster, Scipio Spinks and Sonny Siebert. Siebert was obtained in a recent trade with the Texas Rangers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said today steps have been taken by the National Weather Service to improve warning services for the Missouri Bootheel area.

Symington noted that two persons were killed in a tornado in Dunklin County Nov. 24 and an investigation by the Daily Dunklin Democrat newspaper in Kennett made it "apparent that these and future tragedies might be avoided through more efficient management of the National Storm Warning System.

Symington said in a statement to an Appropriations subcommittee that because of mechanical delays in the radar warning system and lack of personnel at relay centers some broadcast stations were not notified in time to warn Bootheel residents of the impending danger.

Relay centers for the transmission of weather warnings are located in St. Louis, Memphis and Louisville.

Symington said a new interstate direct communication line has been installed between the weather service forecast office in St. Louis and the state relay station in Memphis, a suggestion he said was made by the Kennett newspaper.

The senator also said that the forecast office in Louisville, which did not relay some of the severe weather warnings on Nov. 24, has been instructed to transmit on its state wire all warnings which cover an area within 100 miles of the state boundaries.

WINNIPEG (AP) — The National Touring Office of the Canada Council has told the Royal Winnipeg Ballet that the company will receive $50,000 to present "The Nutcracker" in five cities in late January and during February.

The cities are Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Saskatoon.

Two tractor trailers will transport the scenery, which was designed and built in Germany, supervised by Jurgen Rose. Choreography is by John Neumeier.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Allen charged with bad checks

CHARLESTON — Fletcher Allen, 35, of Charleston, has beencharged with issuing bad checks, according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith, who arrested Allen Tuesday afternoon in Charleston.

The charge was filed on a $10 bad check written to the Martin Oil Co. station on a First Security State Bank check.

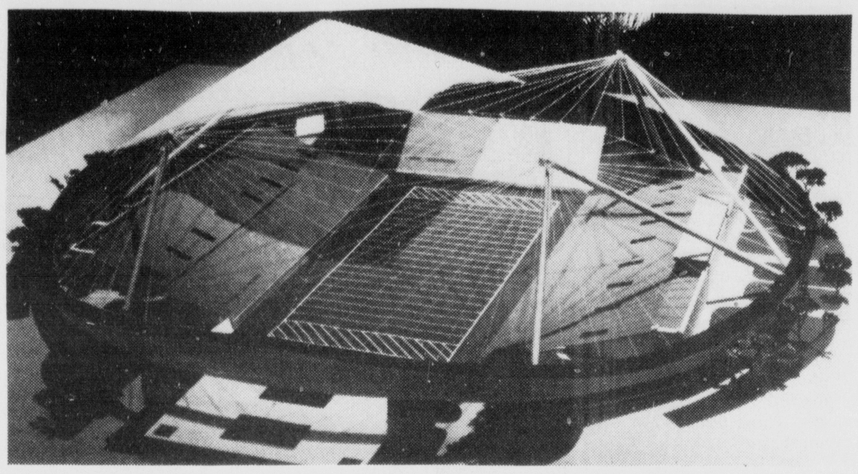
Several other bad checks reportedly have been written in the city, Smith said.

Halter arrested

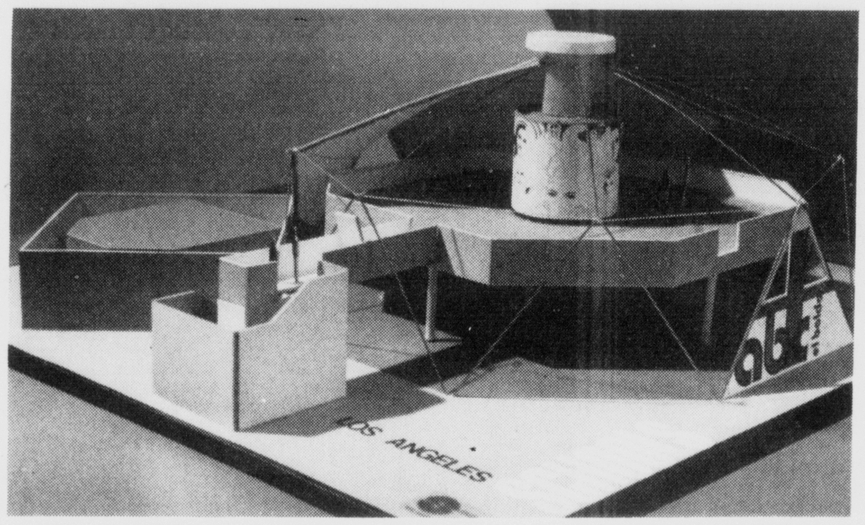
ORAN — William Halter of Oran was arrested at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday by Scott County Sheriff's deputies for discharging a firearm within the Oran city limits.

The sheriff's office said he was intoxicated and was firing the gun from the house to the yard.

He was being held this morning in the Scott County Jail in Benton.



Another major project, shown in model above, is planned for Las Vegas. Four A-frame steel masts would support the Teflon-coated translucent Fiberglass roof. The technique is also applicable to other public structures such as schools. Below, a Los Angeles design model.



Rural counties bounce back

WASHINGTON — "There are encouraging indicators that some of our rural counties are bouncing back," says Missouri 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison in assessing recent federal census information.

In a release from his Washington office, the Cape Girardeau, Mo., Democrat noted that most rural counties had struggled almost three decades to halt the decline in population.

An estimate for the three years 1970-72 discloses that 10 counties of the 10th District which lost population between the 1960 and 1970 censuses have registered gains.

The 10 counties and the estimated population gains include: Perry, 600; Madison, 600; Bollinger, 200; Wayne, 1,000; Carter, 300; Butler, 2,200; Stoddard, 800; New Madrid, 1,300; Dunklin, 1,500 and Pemiscot, 500.

Burlison said a number of considerations may be responsible for the trend. "Maybe the restraints of urban life and improvement in the rural sector is a factor. We have more industrial employment in some areas.

"Certainly not to be overlooked," Burlison added, "is the strong and surging market for our staple agricultural commodities of soy beans, cotton, wheat and corn."

were still there," Woodward said, adding that he told Holland to leave and he would talk to him when he (Holland) was feeling better.

"At one point I started to arrest him for public intoxication, but his wife told me that if I wouldn't, she would take him home and take care of him," he said.

Mrs. Woodward testified that Holland telephoned her later that night and asked her where her husband was. "I told him I didn't know and he said 'tell that bastard to call me when he gets home.' I kept asking him what was wrong and he didn't answer," she said.

Mrs. Woodward testified that she did not hear a shot while talking to Holland on the phone.

Sgt. Patterson said Mrs. Holland told him she shot her husband but didn't mean to and was only trying to get his attention.

Hearst hopes distribution brings daughter's freedom

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Newspaper magnate Randolph A. Hearst says he hopes the $2 million food distribution program prompted by demands from his daughter's kidnapers can get rolling Friday and bring about her freedom.

Work on setting up the program gets under way today.

"I don't know what to expect. I only hope at this point," Hearst told reporters Tuesday at his home.

"With the $2 million, we can feed 100,000 people a month for 12 months," Hearst said in describing his "Peoples In Need" program. "And it's possible for it to become an ongoing program" for feeding California's poor.

Hearst said the program would be patterned after Washington State's "Neighbors in Need" program, which has distributed tons of food to the poor and needy since heavy heavy cutbacks at Seattle's Boeing Co. brought an unemployment crisis to that state in 1970.

Secretary of State A. Ludlow Kramer of Washington was named to administer the Hearst program.

The Symbionese Liberation Army claims reponsibility for abducting Hearst's daughter Patricia from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. As a precondition for negotiating her release, the group later demanded a food giveaway by Tuesday for California's needy. Miss Hearst turns 20 today.

"The hope I have is that we'll hear from them and they'll release my daughter," declared Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

He said the program was financed by $500,000 of his money and $1.5 million from one of his family's foundations.

The newspaper executive said he decided to use the Washington-style program after being approached earlier Tuesday by Kramer and Peggy Maze, director of "Neighbors In Need."

Kramer, who said the Washington program has contributed $5 million in food to some three million people, said he would start lining up trucks and food outlets today.

Kramer called for 1,000 volunteers to get the first food out by Friday and an entire distribution network set up in two weeks.

Kramer said the program will be designed to work "with any group that says there is a need for food to be distributed in their community. We don't have time for standards. We want to feed people."

Indians charge

SENATH — A 25- foot desperation shot at the buzzer by Allen Jackson lifted the New Madrid Indians into the semifinals of the Class AA regional here Tuesday night and past fourth seeded Senath-Hornersville, 50-49. Malden's high scoring Green Wave shot down the Hayti Indians 95-73 to complete the night's final first round action.

Coach Carroll Compton's all- underclassmen team fell behind 12-2 in the first quarter, but battled back with a tight defense and good rebounding to finally overtake the favorites with a 24-17 fourth quarter edge.

Steve Glenn pumped in 20 points to head up to Indians assault, collecting eight big points in the final quarter on tip ins. Kent Waggoner hit 24 for the Lions.

New Madrid will collide with county rival, the Lilbourn Panthers, in Thursday night's opening semifinal round game. North Pemiscot and Malden square off in the nightcap that will send the winners into a Friday evening showdown at 7:30 p.m.

The district's leading offensive team, the Malden Green Wave, bettered their 80 plus per game season average in out- gunning the Hayti Indians 95-73.

Coach Jim Orr's MHS cagers roared into an early 10 point advantage, but had to settle for a 48-43 halftime buldge before putting the game away with a 27-10 third quarter advantage.

Jim Robinson a sharp shooting reserve, set the pace for the Green Wave with 22 points and led a five player double figure barrage. Clarence Sherrod hit 20, Carl Townsend and Calvin Smith 18 each and Leonard Thompson 15 to round out the MHS balance. Sylvester James scored 20 for the Indians leadership.

The winner of the Senath-Hornersville regional will face the Richland champ at Poplar Bluff Feb. 25 at 7:30.

Bearcats topple JHS

By STUART MCGHEE

DEXTER--- Coach Jim Hall's Dexter Bearcats surprised the District Tuesday night as the Bearcats upset the fourth seeded Jackson Indians 88- 57 in the Class AAA Regional Basketball Tournament. This game was followed by Charleston defeating the unseeded Caruthersville Tigers 66- 60.

Coach Hall put the Bearcat offense in gear in the first quarter as the 'Cats scored 14 points and held the Indians to eight. The Dexter lead became more evident in the second quarter with the Bearcats pumping in 23 points while the surprised Indians managed only ten.

The action was closer in the third period with the Bearcats scoring one more point than the Indians with 20. A point effort by Jackson in the fourth quarter fell short as the Bearcats added another 25 points to their lead.

Don Reynolds contributed 22 points to the Dexter victory. Kent Nelson scored 16 for the Indians.

The second game of the night started off on a sour note for the Charleston Blue Jays as the Caruthersville Tigers held a 20- 12 first quarter lead. Charleston tightened their defense in the second quarter allowing only nine points as they put in 19 offensively.

Charleston continued to dominate the game in the third quarter as they scored 17 points and their stingy defense permitted only 17 points. Caruthersville hit hard scoring 24 points in the final period, but the Blue Jays scored 18 points to keep the winning margin.

Marshall Straughter led the Charleston offense scoring 19 points. Gary Walton paced the Tiger team with 12.

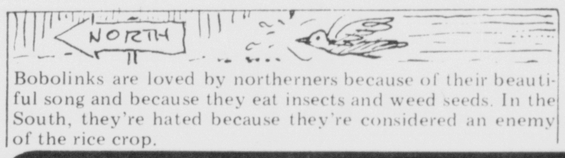
Notre Dame (dark uniforms) and Twin Rivers cagers reach out for the basketball during first round play in the Richland Class AA regional at Richland Tuesday night. The Bulldogs raced into Thursday's semifinals with a convincing victory over the Royals.



Bobolinks are loved by northerners because of their beautiful song and because they eat insects and weed seeds. In the South, they're hated because they're considered an enemy of the rice crop.

Showdown Thursday

By BILL HARRISON

ESSEX — The Neelyville Tigers and the Notre Dame Bulldogs will collide in the semi- finals of the Richland Class AA regional tournament Thursday night at 8 p.m. by virtue of their wins here Tuesday night. Coach Terry Tomlinson's Tigers beat IS-C 76-56 and coach Ed Arnzen's Bulldogs whipped Twin Rivers 83-64.

In the first game of the night NHS took advantage of ISC turnovers and cold shooting by the Rams in the first period. ISC managed to stay in the game despite the turnovers as NHS led 11-10 after the initial period.

The miscues began to take their toll in the second quarter as the Tigers, led by Gary Purdom, outscored the Rams 22-12 and led 33-22 at the half.

With Purdom hitting the jumper from the 20 foot range the Tigers ran away witn game in the second half. The Rams played respectable on defense but was unable to hold onto the ball on offense and their season came to a close with the defeat.

Purdom finished the game with 27 points. High man for the Rams was Dan Gentry with 16.

The Notre Dame Bulldogs used their height advantage to take care of the Twin River High School (TWHS) Royals. The Bulldogs played sloppy basketball but their ability to outjump the smaller Royals and their zone defense paid dividends as the Bulldogs advanced to the semi- finals Thursday night.

ND took the second period 22-14 after leading in the first period by four, 14-10, but Twin Rivers started shooting better from the outside in the second half to keep the Bulldogs from embarassing them further.

Don Maurer hit a game high of 36 points and David Burke scored 18 for the losing Royals.

ND hit 32 field goals to 30 for TWHS but the Bulldogs hit 19 free shots to only four for the Royals.

Oran upset Matthews

By KAYE PARSONS

ORAN — The Oran Eagles came from behind to defeat the Matthews Pirates 80-77 Tuesday night in the final regular season basketball game for both teams.

The Eagles fell behind in the first quarter 29-20. OHS made a better showing in the second quarter and hit for 20 points while holding the Pirates to 16 for a 45-40 score.

Oran came closer to the mark set by the Pirates in the third quarter as they put away 22 points, three points ahead of the Pirates. The game changed hands in the foruth quarter as Oran pumped in 18 points to give them the lead and the win.

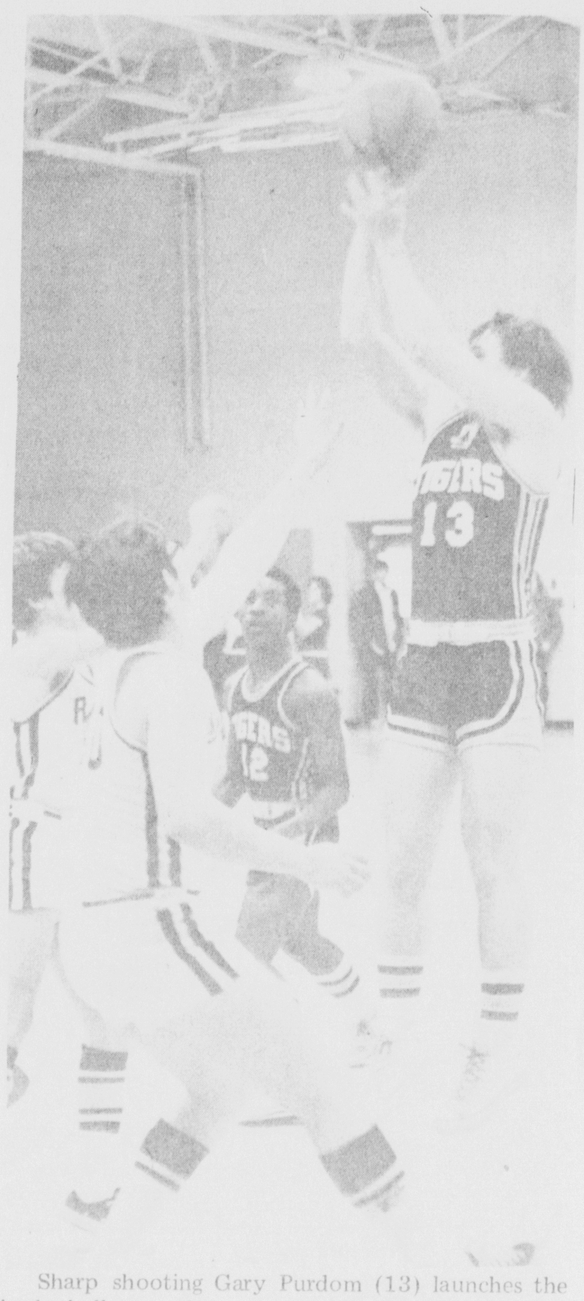
Sports in brief

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Dr. Roland Lombard of Wayland, Mass., is the Anchorage Fur Rendezvous World Dog Mushing Champion for the eighth time. Lombard won $3,300 in competition which ended Sunday. He last was champion in 1971.

BUFFALO (AP) — Don Calhoun, a running back from Kansas State, became the sixth rookie to sign with the Buffalo Bills when he agreed to terms Monday, the National Football League club announced.

Calhoun was the Bills' second 10th- round draft choice in the 1974 NFL draft. He was drafted in the 32nd round by Philadelphia of the fledgling World Football League.



Sharp shooting Gary Purdom (13) launches the basketball toward the goal during first round action in Class AA regional at Richland Tuesday night. Purdom led the Neelyville Tigers past Illmo- Scott City and into a showdown against the Notre Dame Bulldogs Thursday night.

Bulldogs lose pair

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. — Coach N. P. McDaniel's Sikeston, Mo., high school Bulldog basketball team fell behind 16-zip in the first quarter and never recovered enough to even threaten the hot- shooting Blytheville Chickasaws here Tuesday night. The 87-65 loss by the Bulldogs was their eighth in nine starts on the road this year, and added even more to the confusion in the minds of their followers. After two wins last week Sikeston seemed to be gaining momentum for the upcoming 4-A regional at Cape Girardeau next week. But, after the trouncing handed them by the Arkansawers, SHS fans have to wonder about their team's chances against the four other "big" schools they will be fighting at Houck fieldhouse starting next Tuesday.

It was a case of just too much Blytheville shooting as the hosts ran up a 50-23 halftime lead. The eventual winners connected on a scintilating 70 per cent of their shots in the first half, aided on many occasions by the bad Sikeston defensive effort. Numerous times BHS players were able to slip behind the ineffective Sikeston defense and score "cripple" buckets, a factor that aided Bruce Hay in scoring 13 points in the second quarter and end the game with 17. Six- foot- 2 Ricky Meador was the game's top scorer and rebounder as he simply outclassed any Bulldog that tried to guard him and scored 24 points while grabbing ten rebounds.

The only Bulldogs even close to the target was 5-foot- 9 Vangalee West. He hit half of his 16 shots and scored 18 points to lead the Sikeston scorers. Roy Bowman added 11 and Roger Tillman ten, but both inside men for Sikeston were unable to cope with the opposition's inside talent and each suffered through poor shooting nights.

The Bulldogs outscored Blytheville in the second half, 42-37, as their shooters began to connect and they were able to give the Chicks more opposition on the boards. But, the second halfs totals for Sikeston undoubtable were aided by the full- scale substituting going on from the Blytheville bench. Before the game was over Blytheville coach Jim Robinson had played all fourteen players who suited for the game. Ten of those scored despite the coach's efforts to hold the score down.

After that super- hot first half, Blytheville cooled off somewhat in the second half and ended the game with a 47.6 shooting percentage. Sikeston, on the other hand, hit 57 per cent of their second half shots to end the game with a 42.2 per cent mark.

The Bulldogs missed several free throws, hitting just 11 of twenty. Blytheville was some better, connecting on nine of 14 tries.

Ten rebounds by Meador and eight by postman Richard Woodard helped Blytheville to a 42-35 edge on the boards. They grabbed 20 of the 31 first half caroms. Roy Bowman's eight grabs led Sikeston. Roger Tillman had seven.

Blytheville didn't present a real tough defense although it did sparkly beside the Sikeston effort. Sikeston, mostly on bad passes, lost the ball 17 times and the Chicks were guilty of just 13 miscues.

A very fine Sikeston crowd made the 75 - mile trip to Blytheville and supported both of their teams through one- sided losses. With the support at a peak, the Sikeston team will undoubtedly try to give a better performance at Cape Central this Friday night. Sikeston will take an overall 7-12 record into that contest.

The second quarter was the difference for the Sikeston junior varsity at Blytheville. The jayvees, who have dropped two of their last three, were blasted 77-40 by a revenge- minded Blytheville B-team. In the first game of the year Sikeston had defeated Blytheville 55-51. The loss dropped the Sikeston record to 14-3. Blytheville is now 15-5.

Blytheville used a great rebounding advantage and poor Sikeston shooting to outscore them 28-2 in that fateful second quarter and put the game away. Both teams had scored eight in the first frame and the big period gave the Chicks a 36-10 halftime lead.

The Sikeston press put a small nick in the deficit in the third period, but Blytheville came back in the last frame to more than double the Sikeston total.

IRONTON — Arcadia Valley rallied from 14 points behind to tie the Clearwater Tigers, only to drop the game in overtime 55-53 and Crystal City beat the Woodland Cardinals 68-43 in the Class AA regional here Tuesday night.

Clearwater had the game in hand as the Tigers ran up a 14-8 first period lead against AVHS and outscored their opponent 16-11 in the second quarter.

After the intermission Clearwater added to their lead by pouring in 15 points to 12 for AVHS.

Coach David Bone put the press on in the last eight minutes and rallied for 20 points while CHS was netting only six to tie the game before the buzzer.

The Tigers scored four points in the overtime period to only two for AVHS to win the game.

Cary Barks was the big threat for the Tigers with 27 points. Johnny Carr hit 24 for AVHS.

CCHS had little trouble with the WHS Cardinals after the first eight minutes. CHS led 36-25 at the half and the Cardinals were held to only five points in the third period. Gary Black hit 20 for Woodland and Bill Tessereau scored 22 for CCHS

Potosi romps

FLAT RIVER — In the first round of the Class AAA Regional Tournament here Tuesday night, the Potosi Trojans advanced into semi-finals as the first seeded Trojans defeated Flat River Central 69-37, and Fredericktown downed the DeSoto Dragons 63-53.

In the first game of the night Coach Bill Bradley's FRC Rebels' fell behind in the first quarter only scoring five points to their credit, as the Trojans rambled on scoring 15 points in the first quarter and continued their hold throughout the game.

The Rebels only scored two points in the third quarter to the Trojans 13 points. The fourth quarter brought 22 points to the 23-2 Trojans, and the Rebels could only account for 16.

Potosi's overall record now stands at 23-2.

Ten players saw action for Potosi, with Joe Woodland scoring 19 points for the high. Curt Bouyer and John Black each hit ten points apiece for the Rebel's top efforts.

In the second game of the night, the DeSoto Dragons fell to the Fredericktown Blackcats.

The first quarter score was tied at 18 apiece, but the Blackcats broke loose in the second period and scored 12 points and held the Dragons to eight points.

The Dragons had FHS in the press during the third quarter and overpowered them 20-15 for the third period score, but their attempt fell short in the fourth quarter as the Blackcats regained their strength and held the Dragons to seven points as they scored 18 in the final period.

James Saylor, with 18 points, was the high Dragon, followed by double figure scores from Hedger with 12, and Gray with 13. John Nations led the Blackcat attempt with 21 points.

Glidewell cited

MEMPHIS— Ken Glidewell, manager of Federal Compress & Warehouse Co. facilities in Sikeston, Mo., has been awarded a citation and check for outstanding performance in the company's leasing incentive program.

The presentation was made by Sam Hollis, president of Southwide, Inc., and Stan Graber, president of Southwide Development Co., Inc. Southwide, Inc. is the parent company of Federal Compress and Southwide Development.

Approximately 173,000 additional square feet of space have been leased by the company since the incentive program was initiated last fall.

Through its subsidiaries, Southwide operates more than 30 million square feet of warehouse space at a hundred locations in 87 cities of the Mid- South and Far West. It continues a cotton and warehouse service business established more than 85 years ago and today is the country's largest.

Southwide Development, the subsidiary, has leased seven million square feet of space since 1972 and offers a variety of services. These include existing, new, remodeled and custom- remodeled warehouses, as well as new space designed especially for the customer.

'Paper Moon' opens Friday

Peter Bogdanovich's production of "Paper Moon", starring Ryan O'Neal, will return to Mall Theatre at Kingsway Plaza Mall Friday.

"Paper Moon", a Directors Company presentation for Paramount Pictures release, introduces 9 - year - old Tatum O'Neal, O'Neal's real- life daughter, to the screen and co-stars Madeline Kahn and John Hillerman.

Filmed on location in Kansas and Missouri, the Saticoy Production is the tale of an unlikely alliance between a down- at - the- heels con artist and a hard- bitten young girl who turns out to be better at the game than he is. The film is directed and produced by Peter Bogdanovich, whose previous directorial achievements are "Targets", "The Last Picture Show" and "What's Up, Doc?".

The screenplay for "Paper Moon", written by Alvin Sargent, was based on the novel, "Addie Pray", by Joe David Brown.

Shirley Dyer attends meeting

COLUMBIA — The Graduate Realtors Institute held educational sessions at the Ramada Inn in Columbia Feb. 11-15 sponsored by the Missouri Association of Realtors.

Among the students who attended the semi- annual seminar were: Shirley A. Dyer of Sikeston.

The Realtors Institute of Missouri offers a well rounded course of study and practical training to increase the professional competence of Realtors and Realtor- associates. Approved by the National Association of Realtors, the courses are produced and presented by the educational committee of the Missouri Association of Realtors.

The faculty consists of outstanding specialists in the field of real estate and sales.

Candidates who successfully completed the curriculum offered by the institute receive the National designation known as GRI (Graduate, Realtors Institute).

Williams previews air conditioners

ST. LOUIS — Lloyd Williams, owner of Hazel- Williams, Inc. in Sikeston, was one of 500 midwestern air conditioning dealers attending a meeting here to preview a new Carrier line of high efficiency residential air conditioners.

Officials said the new outdoor condensing units, available in the most frequently used two, two and one- half and three- ton capacities, provide more cooling per watt of electric power used and do it more quietly than any of their kind yet announced.

The meeting was one of nine Carrier Corp. is conducting around the country to acquaint its 4,500 franchised dealers with new products and business developments within the industry. Residential air conditioning, the industry's largest market by far, is now a $3.4 billion business nationally.

Life Insurance Week begins

JEFFERSON CITY — The office of Gov. Christopher S. Bond was the site of activities highlighting the beginning of Life Insurance Week in Missouri.

Sponsored by the Missouri Association of Life Underwriters, Life Insurance Week is being devoted to a variety of public service activities throughout the state.

Gov. Bond signed an official document proclaiming the event and presented scholarship awards to the winners of the first annual Life Underwriters Essay Contest, a MALU- sponsored program.

The contest winners were selected from over 100 high school seniors entering competition throughout the state. Scholarship awards of $500, $200 and $100 were presented to the three winners.

Roy M. Maddux, chartered life underwriter and president of MALU, said many of the organization's 2,300 members are conducting public service programs this week.

"Several community-centered projects have been scheduled by local life underwriter groups. Particularly noteworthy are the many seminars dealing with the purchasing and use of life insurance," Maddux added.

John C. Wilson

Wilson named new manager

John C. Wilson has become manager of the Malco theaters in Sikeston, succeeding James Lloyd, who has been named manager of Malco's theaters in Columbus, Miss.

Wilson has been employed by Malco Theatres, Inc. for one year as manager of theaters in Fayetteville, Ark.

Hill to manage new store

POPLAR BLUFF— Paul E. Hill, an employe of P. N. Hirsch & Co. Department Stores for seven years, has been named manager of the company's new Mansion Mall Shopping Center store on Highway 67 North.

A native of Sikeston, Hill was first employed in the company's Sparta, Ill., store. He transferred to Benton, Ky., for his first assignment as a store manager. He moved from Benton to Mounds, Ill., where he managed a company- store for four years until he was transferred to New Madrid.

After managing the New Madrid store for one year, Hill was transferred here for the opening of the company's second Poplar Bluff store last week. A grand opening event is planned for the Mansion Mall store late in March but the store opened last week with a full line of merchandise.

Hill's wife is the former Miss Sue Cantrell, also a native of Sikeston. They have two children, Clay Allen, 3, and Paul Jr., 7. They are making their home at 521 N. Riverview.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Farm commodity futures prices were firm to strong in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, wheat was 1 to 6 cents a bushel higher, March 6.31; corn was 1 to 2 1/2 higher, March 3.22; oats were 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher. March 1.71 and soybeans were 1/2 to 4 higher, March 6.51.

Students, faculty vow to continue

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dissident students and dismissed faculty members marched from the campus of the severely divided Concordia Lutheran Seminary here Tuesday, vowing to continue their education for the ministry in exile.

The climax of the month-long dispute that has threatened to split the 3 million member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in two followed the firing of 40 of the 50 faculty members, who refused to discontinue the class boycott over the Jan. 20 suspension of Dr. John H. Tietjen as seminary president.

Terming the dismissals "unChristian and immoral," a student statement said, "We find it impossible in good conscience to continue our education under the present seminary Board of Control."

About 500 students, who staged an emotional demonstration before leaving the campus that saw the statue of Martin Luther draped in black crepe, voted to follow the ousted faculty members to a "Seminary in Exile" operating at the St. Louis University School of Divinity and Eden Theological Seminary in St. Louis.

Classes at the "Seminary in Exile" were to begin this morning, but representatives of both intervening schools said the "joint project for theological education" was being set up only to assist the dissident students in completing their academic programs.

"This joint educational effort in no way involves a judgement about the internal affairs of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod or the controversies which are at present taking place within the synod," a joint statement from St. Louis University and Eden Seminary said.

The university is "assisting academically a group of students who found it almost impossible to continue their education in the particular set of circumstances in which they found themselves," the Rev. E. J. Drummond, executive vice president of Roman Catholic university said.

The rift, which has been simmering since the synod's convention last summer in New Orleans, centers around how literally the Bible can be interpreted. It erupted when Dr. Tietjen was suspended in connection with charges of teaching false doctrine and malfeasance in office.

The controlling board of the seminary, which produces 65 per cent of the synod's pastors, discharged the 40 faculty members after saying it could no longer tolerate their illegal strike. The Rev. E. J. Otto, board chairman, said after that action on Monday that no further efforts would be made at reconciliation with dissident students and faculty members

SOME PEOPLE keep the strangest pets, although it's really not quite that strange. John C. Stark of New York's American Museum of Natural History puts finishing touches on a new exhibit in the Hall of Reptiles.

Black bear is marvel of the animal world

ST. LOUIS — Surviving a freezing winter in an energy crisis is not easy for people. But black bears, bats, woodchucks, skunks, badgers and other animals, as well as insects, are curled up in their caves and holes, sleeping the winter away.

The winter sleep of the black bear is an unparalleled marvel in the natural world. Bears begin to den early in October. Denning is complete by December and usually lasts until April. From three to five months during the winter the black bear undergoes a metamorphosis. The rate of breathing drops drastically, the body temperature falls, and the heart beats only eight times a minute instead of 40 times as in summer.

During hibernation, the black bear does not eat, drink or eliminate any waste products. Unlike some other hibernators, who feel cold to the touch andseem in a state of almost suspended breathing, black bears are easily arounsed and fully able to protect themselves almost immediately.

Most incredible of all, the female bear actually gives birth to cubs and nurses them in January, midway through the winter sleep. By some metabolic miracle, the mother bear can produce enough calories and protein to maintain herself and enough milk to support growth of her cubs from her own body stores -- without taking any food or water herself.

The body mechanisms of the black bear are fascinating scientists, who are hoping to discover new facts about breathing, nutrition and water and protein metabolism. Now even space scientists are investigating the fabulous black bear and considering prolonged bear flights to planets and stars that have so far been off limits because of food and water soorage problems.

The American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri has little information about the winter breathing habits of black bears, but it does know a great deal about breathing problems of human beings. Ask them for the facts by writing the office at 911 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo. 63101, or phoning 241-1554.

Frankly speaking

Propane Prices Must Be Rolled Back

Congressional passage of the Emergency Energy Bill has been too long delayed. However, it was the first order of business when the Senate reconvened February 18.

Opposition to the bill focuses in large part on an amendment I co- sponsored with Senator Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) to roll back oil prices to the January 1973 level. Among other things, this means that the price of propane -- which is now between 30 and 40 cents per gallon – would be substantially reudced.

The amendment is part of the energy bill conference report which both the House and Senate are expected to vote on this week.

If for any reason the bill does not pass, I am prepared to introduce and push for quick passage of separate legislation to specifically roll back the price of propane to the January 1973 level, allowing increases only if they can be fully justified.

Propane Price Rises Unjustified

The 300 or more per cent increases which have occurred in the price of propane since January 1973 are totally unjustified. Higher prices will not induce increased production. Seventy per cent of the nation's propane is a by-product of natural gas, which remains under tight price controls.

Nor will the higher prices lead to a decreased demand as more and more people have turned to propane as a substitute for dwindling supplies of natural gas. Propane is used and cooking and many of heating and cookiand manh of the users are on low or fixed incomes.

The propane sitauation is being aggravated by operation of what amounts to a "legal black market." Some enterprising brokers, who foresaw the short supply of natural gas and knew that more people would be forced to turn to propane, bought up large amounts of propane at last year's low prices.

Now with the demand greater than the supply, they are selling propane for exorbitant prices and lining their pockets with the money of those who have little choice about buying the product. For them it is either pay the price or go without heat and hot meals.

FEO Investigating

I have called on Energy Administrator William Simon to look into this sitaution and I have since been informed that the Fedearl Energy Office is now actively investigating the brokering operation.

But we can't wait for the results of an investigation to do something about the intolerable price increases of propane. My office is flooded with pleas for help from Missourians who feel their lifeblood is being taken from them.

It is imperative that the increases be stopped now and propane prices rolled back.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

Didn't you know that I had to be in my Father's house? (Luke 2:49)

PRAYER: Our Father, in these rushed days of many concerns for business, school, and family, help us to take time to be in Thy house and to have concern for our neighbor. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Cravens is recent gradu

Cadet Michael A. Cravens of Sikeston recently became one of the first graduating seniors at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau to receive notification of his active duty Air Force assignment following completion of Reserve Officers Training Corps requirements.

Cravens selected missile duty as his career choice and will serve as missile launch officer in the Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile weapon system.

To prepare for his new duties, he will first participate in a 13 -week technical training course at Vandenbury Air Force Base in California.

Upon completion of the course, Cravens will then stationed with the 341st Strategic Missile Wing, at Malstrom Air Force Base in Great Falls, Mont. His training starts May 25, following SeMo State graduation exercises at which he will receive a commission as a second lieutenant.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Red Schoendienst, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, will have two new men in his 1974 outfield. They are Reggie Smith, obtained from the Boston Red Sox, and 24-year-old rookie Bake McBride.

Washington report

Legislation would control red tape for businessman

WASHINGTON, D. C. — All too often small businessmen are overwhelmed by the red tape and paperwork involved in completing Federal reports. This massive burden costs American small business an estimated $18 to $50 billion annually.

I have cosponsored legislation now before the Senate Government Operations Committee which would require Congressional Committees to include in reports on all new legislation an assessment of the amount of paperwork that would be required if the bill were enacted.

Often, information sought by new legislation can be obtained from exisiting Federal reports, or in a less complicated manner than proposed by government agencies.

As a former businessman, I can appreciate the burden imposed by "red tape", and hope we can act to check some of the excessive reporting requirements placed on small businessmen.

TAX CHECK OFF. When we file our federal income tax forms between now and April 15, each of us can help pay for the 1976 Presidential campaign without additional cost

By checking a box on line 8 of From 1040 and 1040A each of us may direct $1 of our federal income tax payments to a bipartisan Presidential Election Campaign Fund. The Democratic and Republican nominees will each get the same amount - 15 cents per eligible voter over 18 years of age.

Minor parties which poll 5 percent of more of the vote in a Presidential election will receive a sum in proportion to the number of their votes.

Congress passed the legislation to help bring an end to the dependence by Presidential candidates on large political contributions and to encourage all citizens to support the presidential election process.

For taxpayers who did not use this option on last year's return, another check off box is provided above the signature line. This permits the taxpayer to designate $1 per person or $2 per couple on a joint return to go into the same presidential campaign fund.

Missouri Interstate Highways On Road To Completion

The Missouri Highway Department reports that our State has finished 925 of its planned 1,147 mile Interstate Highway System.

Missouri was the first state to begin construction on the Interstate system in 1956 when work started on Interstate Route 70 in St. Charles County.

BROCK SET RECORD

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals set a major league record in 1973 by stealing 50 or more bases for the ninth straight year. Brock stole 70 bases, highest total of his career. It moved him into ninth place on the all-time stolen base list with 635.

Save 10¢. And let your taste settle the salad dressing question, once and for all.

In salad dressing, it's flavor that counts. Miracle Whip Salad Dressing's lively fresh flavor comes from a special blend of spices and a blending secret that is Kraft's alone. Miracle Whip is perfect just the way it is. Once you compare it with some of the "me-too" dressings we're sure you'll agree, no matter what, there's only one Miracle Whip. And that's why Miracle Whip makes a sandwich, a salad, seafood or cold cuts taste so fresh and lively. And why Miracle Whip is America's favorite salad dressing.

COOKING-UP

Readers,

This week's column is dedicated to my husband's mother, Mrs. Fred Lucey of Benton, and his grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Mobbs of Bell City, who donated the recipes to me when Tony and I were married because the foods were his favorites.

They are terrific and easy to make. Hope they become your family's favorites, too.

Judy Stricklin

RAISIN PIE

2 cups seedless raisins
2 cups water
½ cup brown sugar, packed
2 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tsp cinnamon
1/8 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. vinegar
Pastry for double 9-inch crust.

Boil raisins in 1 ¾ cups water for five minutes.

Combine brown sugar, conrstarch, cinnamon and salt. Moisten with the remaining ¼ cup water. Add raisins and stir until mixture boils.

Remove from heat. Add butter and vinegar.

Pour into pie shells and cover tops.

Bake for 25 minutes in 425-degree oven.

YORK COOKIES

1 cup margarine
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 eggs
2 tbsp. milk
1 tsp. soda
½ tsp. nutmeg
2 tbsp. orange juice

Cream margarine and sugar. Gradually add flour.

Beat together eggs and milk and add to margarine mixture. Add soda, nutmeg and juice and spread this on cookie sheet.

Sprinkle with sugar and bake at 375 degrees until golden brown.

Cut into squares.

CRESCENT ROLLS

2 cups lukewarm water (not hot)
1 pkg. yeast
4 ½ cups sifted flour
2 tsp. salt
1/3 cup cooking oil
3 tbsp. sugar

Stir yeast in water until dissolved. Add salt, oil and sugar to yeast mixture, then add flour. Mix with hands until dough is soft.

On flour board kneed five or six times.

Then put dough in greased bowl and put in a warm place until bulk doubles, usually 1½ to 2 hours.

Put on slightly floured board and cut into diamond shapes. Leave on floured board until dough again doubles.

Then spread with margarine and roll into crescent rolls.

Bake in 425-degree oven until golden brown.

PECAN PUFFS

½ lb. margarine
4 tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. vanilla
2 cups sifted flour
2 cups ground pecans

Cream margarine and sugar. Add vanilla, flour and pecans.

Mix well and bake ½ hour at 325 degrees.

Cheesecake is easy

An empty paperboard milk carton makes a perfect pan and gives new shape to this old dessert, cheesecake. We like to make two loaves at a time and freeze one for another day.

Roll in powdered sugar while still hot, and roll again when almost cool.

TWIN CHEESECAKES A LA CARTON

Ever since the days of the ancient Greeks and Romans, cheesecake has been a favorite dessert. Today, chefs all over the world vie to make the best cheesecake.

Most recipes call for a special spring-form pan, but this cheesecake needs no unusual equipment. An empty paperboard milk carton makes a perfect pan and gives a new shape to this old favorite.

We like to make two loaves at one time and freeze one for another day. Or serve both loaves for a larger party. The rich, creamy cake is made with milk, cream cheese, eggs and whipped cream. Pineapple and cherries on top give a festive look.

TWIN CHEESECAKES A LA CARTON

2 milk cartons (1 quart each), empty
1-2/3 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup butter, melted
3/4 cup sugar
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup milk
3 eggs, separated
1 pound cream cheese
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
grated rind of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup heavy cream
2 slices pineapple, candied cherries

Rinse out paperboard milk cartons and let dry.

Turn paperboard milk cartons on their sides. Cut down the center of one side of each carton, top to bottom, and open up like double doors by cutting each side. Close pouring ends of cartons and secure with tape.

Combine graham cracker crumbs with melted butter and 1/4 cup of the sugar, mixing thoroughly. Spoon half of mixture into each carton, pressing crumbs down.

In top of double boiler, mix gelatin and remaining 1/2 cup of sugar thoroughly. Beat milk and egg yolks together and add to gelatin mixture.

Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved, about five minutes.

Remove from heat. Beat cream cheese until soft; beat in gelatin mixture, lemon juice, rind and vanilla. Let cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. Whip cream. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into cheese mixture.

Pour into milk cartons and chill in refrigerator until firm.

To serve, cut cartons open and peel away the sides. Slide a knife under crust to loosen, then with a spatula, slide cakes onto serving platter. Decorate with pineapple and cherries.

Makes two cakes of 8 servings each.

Note: If desired, serve one cake immediately and freeze the second for later use.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

And you disgusting males who wander off to work each day and then have the audacity to make cruel and unkind remarks to your wife each evening when you return home and find her climbing the walls. Well, in answer to your pet and favorite question and answer which seems to be quoted by all of you (oh, if man would only come up with some originality), and is, "Why are you so up tight and frustrated?" "I'm the one who has to work all day and make the living while all you do is sit at home and watch television!" Well, I give you chauvinist males the answer as to why today I happen to be a little bit dottier than usual and it is —

After getting hubby and the children out the door in the morning, which I might add is no mean feat in itself and which has already started the tic in my right eye to jumping, then here went some of the rest of the items I had on my agenda to do! One, I had a leg on a table that needed tightened — but do you think after one and one half hours of steady searching the house from attic to cellar I ever found the tool chest — nay, I did not, so file table away to work on another day if and when the tools ever reappear. Next, while looking into corners I discovered my fishing gear tossed about so I thought I'd best get it ready for summer, but do you think I ever found the reel to my rod? Wrong again, this time I found what I was looking for, only I wish I hadn't. It was mournfully and in a thousand tangles attached to a kite someone in my domain had been flying and you wouldn't believe what a mess it was in. Oh well, I never catch any fish anyway, guess I'll just go out with a string and a safety pin. Then, I thought (and why I don't know as they're all obnoxious), I'd make an apple pie for dinner with the apples I bought the day before — what apples? Guess that saved me a little time and trouble, course on looking around I spotted several other items I'd purchased the day before that were now missing and if I even wanted to get dinner on the table at all that would mean a trip to the grocery store I hadn't bargained on during my busy (accomplishing nothing), day I had planned. Anyway, I'm running out of space to write in, but do you old males at least get an inkling of why your dear spouse has almost flipped her lid out of pure frustration by the end of the day? I mean, I just double dog dare Charles to waltz in today and say one unkind word to me, cause if he does, boy,! just address his mail to the hospital for the next week if you want it to reach him.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Cottage Cheese Is Good for You

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I eat cottage cheese every day for protein but wondered if I might be getting too much calcium. I am in my late 60s and have arthritis. Would all this cottage cheese have an adverse effect on the arthritis?

Dear Reader — All that cottage cheese is probably good for you. There are only a few people who have basic underlying metabolic problems who can't utilize large amounts of calcium in their diets. The problem usually is just the opposite, that people aren't getting enough calcium. Women, in particular, need large amounts of calcium to prevent the decalcification of the spine and other bones that occurs after the change of life. The decalcification of the spine past middle age in women is responsible for the large number of women that you see who have a hump in their back and otherwise begin to lose their height.

The decalcification is related to the changes in hormones and is much more likely to occur in women who are not getting enough calcium in their diet. This is why I always recommend that from some source, women particularly, should get the same amount of calcium that's present in a quart of milk on a daily basis. One of these good sources is cottage cheese. Another is canned salmon (particularly if you eat the bones that are in it). In the interest of keeping down calories and also if a person needs to limit the fat intake, in the diet to prevent fatty deposits in the arteries and other problems, one can use the uncreamed cottage cheese and the fortified skim milk.

There seems to be a common idea among people with arthritis that their problem is caused by too much calcium. This is completely wrong. Arthritis is not caused or made worse by having too much calcium in the diet.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I was glad to read your recent article on hiatal hernia, as I have one. I have been thinking about getting a slant board to use for stimulating other parts of my body for short periods each day. This is arranged so that the feet are at least 15 inches higher than the head. Now I have been wondering if this would be bad for the hernia. I do sleep with the head of my bed elevated but I didn't know until I read your column that you shouldn't bend over to pick things up.

Dear Reader — Forget about the slant board. Remember that a hiatal hernia literally has the effect of a hole in the diaphragm and the problem all begins when the stomach begins to slide through the hole. As long as you're standing upright and there's not too much pressure in the abdomen, this is not inclined to happen. That's why the head of the bed is elevated. If you use a slant board or do any other type of exercise in which the head is lower than the feet you're apt to cause the hernia to slide through the hole in the diaphragm.

In general, people who have hiatal hernia should not do exercises that use the abdominal muscle, such as sit-ups, until after their stomach has had a chance to completely empty. And after having done a period of sit-ups it probably would be a good idea to either sit, or better, sand up for a period of time to make sure that any tendency for the stomach to herniate into the diaphragm will at least be minimized.

TV game-show developer tries second novel

NEW YORK (AP) — Even though he gave television "The Dating Game" nine years ago, Chuck Barris isn't all bad. For one thing, he doesn't wear ties, which in my book automatically makes him a good citizen.

For another, he's working on his second novel, "The Game Show," in which he says the hero, a TV game-show packager, finds "a good way to boost his ratings by killing contestants on the air."

Some might say this is what eventually happens to the mind of a 44-year-old Philadelphian — I have reference to Barris — who is one of Hollywood's most successful developers of TV game shows.

But he just grins and denies it.

"I'm just trying to write a book of the absurd with television in mind," he says, adding that he's not out to commit an expose' of the game-show business or anything like that.

"I don't want to crusade," he says. "I just want to do a book that's entertaining and show just how crazy network television is."'

Barris, a short, soft-spoken millionaire who appears the sort of guy who laughs because he suspects the world is mad, said he's been on a sabbatical from TV since September to promote his first novel.

It's called "You and Me, Babe," and is sort of a gameshow "Love Story" except that the rich heroine doesn't die at the end. She only leaves the hero, an unsuccessful novelist who strikes it rich in the gameshow business.

It is what critics call a "thinly disguised autobiography."

The labor occurred in the south of France in 1971. Barris still thinks of the period as "maybe the best four or five months of my life."

In coming months, he said, he'll work on a motion picture version of the book. But he's going at it like the experienced producer he is, not like the starry-eyed first novelist he is.

In short, none of his own personal loot will be in the picture.

"That's a very emotional thing to do," he said. "Some say, 'Well, if we don't get a studio to do it, we have millions of dollars in the company, and we'll produce it ourselves.'

What's the law?

The case of the irate voter

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

While a rose by any other name may smell just as sweet, Cindy- Loo had no intention of yielding up her maiden name when she got married. What's more, she didn't.

She exclusively and consistently retained and used her maiden name at all times and for all things. However, when the election board belatedly discovered she had gotten married, she was directed to reregister to vote under her married name.

"I will do no such male chauvinistic thing," fumed Cindy-Loo in response. "I'm entitled to my own individual identity and no one can take it away from me."

"That may be true," retorted a member of the election board. "But under the law, a person must register to vote under his legal name. And, when you got married, your husband's surname became your legal name. Consequently, unless you reregister under it, we're going to cancel your registration."

Spitting mad, Cindy- Loo took the matter to court where she demanded that the election board be restrained from cancelling her registration.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the election board to cancel irate Cindy- Loo's registration?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while a womam may choose to adopt her husband's surname on marriage, and more often than not does so, a married woman's surname does not, as a matter of law, become that of her husband where she evidences a clear intent to consistently and nonfraudulently use her birth given name subsequent to marriage. In other words, concluded the judge in effect, her legal name is the one she chooses to use consistently and nonfraudulently.

Connie Stevens wants to buy movie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Connie Stevens has offered to buy an American Broadcasting Corp. Movie of the Week, "The Sex Symbol," following the network's decision not to air it as scheduled on March 5.

An ABC spokesman said Monday that the movie, depicting an actress who is driven to drugs and drink, was being withdrawn because it needed more work.

Other reports, however, indicated that ABC's decision could have been influenced by political overtones raised by scenes in the film recounting a romance between the actress and a U.S. senator.

Miss Stevens said: "I thought it (the movie) was ready and I waited a long time for this. It's the finest thing I have ever done."

Interviewed by phone, Miss Stevens, who is currently appearing in Lake Tahoe, Nev., said she had heard the film would not be aired for at least a year. "If it's a year, I'd like to buy it myself," she commented.

One reason for Miss Stevens' disappointment was said to be that if the film is not aired by March 16, she would not be eligible for an Emmy nomination.

The University of Massachusetts held a "Salute to Yogi" at half time during the game with Vermont. "We wanted to honor Yogi Berra not only for his role as manager of the New York Mets, but also for his loyalty to the school over the past years."

Yogi's son, Tim, played split end for Massachusetts and Yogi made several New England trips to see his son play after the World Series ended.

LOOKING BACK

Birthday skating party held

50 years ago
February 20, 1924

Mrs. J. A. Young returned Sunday from Bertrand, where she had been spending a few days.

One of the very delightful affairs complimentary to Miss Gladys Kendall, who became the bride of James Kevil today, was a four- course luncheon given on Saturday by Miss Irma Wilson at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Rodes on Tanner street. Bridge was enjoyed the balance of the afternoon.

Sikeston boys closed the season with a score of 217 points to opponents 189, though Sikeston lost a majority of the games and all played away from home. Arden Ellise was elected captain for next year.

Ed Wilson and family and J. W. Marshall are now on the road to Colton, Calif., where they will probably make their future home.

Today in U.S. history

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 20, the 51st day of 1974. There are 314 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth. After being launched from Cape Canaveral, he circled the earth three times and made a safe landing in the Atlantic.

On this date:

In 1437, King James I of Scotland was murdered in the Scottish city of Perth.

In 1792, President George Washington signed an act creating the U.S. Post Office.

In 1809, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the power of the federal government is greater than that of any individual state.
